PARIS, Sept. 26.—(Saturday)—France, long-buffeted king of the gold bloc, early today summoned parliament for what officials said would be "approximately one-third" devaluation of the franc—the result of a "monetary equilibrium" accord with the United States and Great Britain.

The accord, French financiers said, would mean that the franc would be pared to equality with the American dollar and the English pound sterling.

In a night and early morning crammed with dramatic, fast-breaking developments, the popular front government sought to solve its grave financial troubles with these measures:

1—Parliament, meeting at 9 a. m., Monday, will be asked to set the gold content of the franc, now 65 milligrams, at between 49 and 43 milligrams. (Approximately 20 francs to the dollar or 100 to the pound.)

(The franc is currently quoted at 77 to the pound sterling and the American dollar now buys 15.2 francs.)

2. France, the United States and Great Britain will act in concert for "equilibrium" of the franc, the dollar and the pound sterling, as a result of this realignment. Other nations are expected to join.

3. With the aid of a ten-billion franc stabilization fund, the franc is expected to find a level somewhere between the two gold content points proposed.

Requisition Gold.

4. The government will propose to parliament the requisition of all gold at its present value.

5. Debtors, owing sums which are scheduled to be paid in gold or foreign currencies, will have the imme-

WORLD RECOVERY IS SEEN AS RESULT

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(UP)—World monetary authorities interpreted the agreement as one of the most important steps for world recovery—for it means that cut-throat international financial rivalry, such as that which wrecked the London money stabiliation conference, has been definitely abandoned.

An immediate revival of confidence on the part of businessmen throughout the world was forecast and an upturn in the prices of commodities and government securities seemed a "logical expectation" to many experts.

More Democratic Committee Officials Are Selected

Two prominent Georgia women and a well-known man yesterday were designated for important unfilled posts on the new state Democratic executive committee to be organized at Macon October 7. On left is Mrs. F. A. Stowe, of Toccoa, who will be the secretary. In center is George L. Googe, of Savannah, designated vice chairman, while on right is Mrs. Helen William Coxon, of Ludowici, vice chairman.

SUCCESSOR NAMED TO MRS. E. O. ROAN

Mrs. F. A. Stowe Chosen New State Democratic Committee's Secretary.

Mrs. F. A. Stowe, of Toccoa, has been selected as the new secretary of the state Democratic executive committee which will be headed by Charles S. Reid, of Atlanta, it was learned yesterday. Mrs. Stowe's election is slated for the state convention at Macon October 7.

It also was decided yesterday that the vice chairmanships of the new committee will go to George L. Googe, of Savannah, well-known labor leader, and Mrs. Helen Williams Coxon, of Ludowici, recently elected for her third term as Long county's representative in the general assembly.

Mrs. Stowe, who will succeed Mrs. Elea o. Orr Roan, of Palmetto, is the wife of Sheriff Fred Stowe, of Stephens county. She is one of the best known young women in Georgia politics, having served for several years as clerk to the Stephens county board of commissioners. She has taken a leading part in the Democratic affairs of the state. Both she and Sheriff Stowe long have been warm supporters of Governor-elect E. D. Rivers and Senator Richard B. Russell Jr.

Mrs. Stowe served as a ninth congressional district delegate to the Democratic national convention at Philadelphia this year.

Mr. Googe, who will be named committee vice chairman, resides in Savannah but maintains ofifces in Atlanta. He is southern district representative of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and long has been prominent in labor matters. He began his career as a pressman's helper in Savannah and at present is considered the spokesman of organized labor in the south.

Mrs. Coxon is known to Georgians as "the lady from Long." In her service in the house of representatives she has been assigned to some of that body's most important committees and long has been considered one of the strongest Rivers leaders in south Georgia.

Mr. Googe will succeed Senator James H. Skelton Sr., of Hartwell, and Mrs. Coxon will succeed Milton L. Fleetwood, of Cartersville.

Reports from Macon yesterday said that the convention plans are going forward rapidly. The designation of Mr. Reid as committee chairman was announced last week, as was the designation of Congressman E. E. Cox, of Camilla, as the temporary chairman and keynoter of the convention.

Tongueless Child Is Born at Grady

A medical rarity, a baby born without a tongue, was reported last night by doctors at Grady hospital where the child, Calendar Maddox, daughter of John E. and Rosa Mae Maddox, negroes, of Howell Mill road, was born September 19.

Doctors said where the tongue should be is merely a tiny piece of flesh, which will not develop into a normal organ. The baby was born prematurely, and weighs slightly under five pounds. She is being fed with an eyedropper.

According to doctors, no plastic surgery is possible in such a case. As the child grows older, she will be able to eat normally, they said, but probably will not be able to speak. In other respects, the baby is normal. A leading Atlanta pediatrician said he had never seen another such case in 20 years' practice.

TALMADGE TO JOIN LEGAL FIRM HERE

Report Given Credence by Son's Association With Local Law Group.

Governor Talmadge will join the Atlanta law firm of Hewlett & Dennis when his term expires early in January, it was authentically reported yesterday.

The report was given credence by the announcement that Herman Talmadge, the Governor's son, who recently was admitted to the bar, had become associated with the firm. Adjutant General Lindley W. Camp was an associate of the firm prior to his appointment in 1933 and he is expected to rejoin it in January.

For the last several months the association between the Governor and Samuel D. Hewlett, the head of the law firm, has grown quite intimate, and it is understood that since the rift between Hugh Howell, retiring chairman of the state Democratic executive committee over Talmadge's failure to back Howell for governor, the firm of Hewlett & Dennis has been handling much of the legal business connected with state matters, formerly handled by Howell.

Friends of the present chairman said yesterday that he has seen Governor Talmadge "only two or three times" since July 4, when Talmadge publicly announced his support of Senator Charles D. Dedwine, who was overwhelmingly defeated by Speaker E. D. Rivers.

It is understood that the Governor's present plan is to enter the Hewlett & Dennis firm, which probably will be reorganized and Talmadge made the senior partner. His program calls for continued operation of his farms in Monroe and Telfair counties, which he has directed since the outset of his administration, although the operations in Telfair county have been and will continue to be under the direct supervision of Mrs. Talmadge.

The Governor's as yet unannounced plans also call for his continuance of the Statesman, a weekly newspaper he edits with a view of a political comeback two or four years hence.

Cobb Says: Breed Is Oversight of Nature

By IRVIN S. COBB.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

VERNALIS, Cal., Sept. 25.—When he's not working at his regular trade, I know now what becomes of the gentleman with the brainpan development of a Potomac shad who makes a business of sitting at the ringside and yelling to some poor dub of a pugilist, while the latter is being whipped into a custard, "go on, kid—he can't hurt you."

To show the other side of his nature, this party attends picture theaters and hisses madly as the likeness of the opposition presidential candidate is flashed on the screen.

Statistics show that his breed already numbers nearly two millions and is constantly increasing because, owing to a regrettable oversight of nature, this species spawns close to shore and the hatch all live.

FACTORY PAY ROLLS INCREASE SHARPLY

Bank Loans to Agricultural, Industrial Interests Show Advances.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A more-than-seasonal upturn in factory employment and pay rolls during August was reported today by the Federal Reserve Board.

The board said the month brought a seasonal increase in industrial activity but that commodity prices, which had advanced for three months, showed little change after the middle of August.

In its summary of business and financial conditions, the board also said that steel output rose more than seasonally in August and that the higher level was maintained in the first three weeks of September.

"Factory employment," the board reported, "rose further between the middle of July and the middle of August by an amount larger than is usual at this season.

"There were substantial increases in working forces at establishments producing textiles and wearing apparel and smaller increases in most other lines."

Factory pay rolls also pointed upward, it said, but the employment and pay roll aggregates were affected to some extent by a decline in automobile production which was reduced as plants closed for inventory taking and mechanical changes preparatory to introduction of new models.

The increased activity at textile plants and shoe factories pushed up the output of non-durable manufactures generally, the board said, but coal production declined.

Discussing bank credit, the board said the principal jump in loans during August had been in agricultural, commercial and industrial advances.

These loans were reported at the highest level since early in 1933.

Loans to security dealers also increased, due in part to flotation of a $400,000,000 issue of treasury bonds in September.

Member banks of the federal reserve system acquired part of the issue, the board reported, principally by drawing upon their balances with the reserve banks.

Attributable largely to purchases of securities, member bank excess reserves dropped off $280,000,000 during the week ended September 16.

The decline followed an increase of almost $200,000,000 in the three preceding weeks, when the treasury was withdrawing its deposits.

Time Will Turn Backward Tonight Ending Daylight Saving for Year

Anyone who thinks time marches on at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning, is, to speak bluntly, toying with the facts.

Time will not do any marching between 2 and 3 o'clock on the Sabbath morn. Time will take time out. Time will bivouack for an hour. Time will sit down and take a load off its feet while changing from daylight saving to regular time.

And Atlantans, to help Father Time avail himself of one of his rare rests, will set their clocks back one hour at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning. Of course ,the smart thing to do, from the viewpoint of preventing a disturbance of sleep, is to set the timepiece back an hour before retiring tonight.

That will have the same effect.

Tonight, throughout the city, residents will join in observing the ritual of twisting the little gadget that turns the hands of the clocks and watches of the city.

And most of us will stop with our fingers on the little knob and say:

"Now, let's see. Do you turn the hands forward or backwards?"

You turn it backwards.

And in the morning you will get up and start your daily activities and won't notice any difference—except that you have had an extra hour's sleep and probably will be a little more pleasant to Junior when he starts romping about the house.

Did you ever stop to think what that extra hour wasted in bed means to Greater Atlanta's 270,000 people?

That means 270,000 hours, which, figured at 24 hours to the day, totals nearly 31 years.

Think of that. Atlantans will snooze 31 years overtime tonight!

Some optimistic employers suggest that by reason of the added hour many of those employes who were late to work last spring (having forgotten to set their timepieces ahead) will be on hand an hour early next Monday, having forgotten to set their timepieces back.

Experience has shown, however, that memories that are faulty in the spring are functioning on all 12 cylinders in the autumn.

Be that as is may, turn your clocks back one hour tonight and let it go at that—unless you can figure out some way to utilize those 31 years which will be consumed tonight.

Officials of the Georgia Power Company said last night arrangements had been made so that employes will not have to work an extra hour. Railroads have been operating on central standard time throughout the summer and are unaffected.

JAPANESE ANCHOR ADDITIONAL SHIPS IN SHANGHAI PORT

Japan 'Will Speak Softly But Carry a Big Stick' for Present, Nanking War Diplomats Aver.

(Copyright, 1936, by the United Press.)

SHANGHAI—(Saturday) —Sept. 26. —(UP) — Additional Japanese warships arrived off the port today to reinforce the demand of Japanese Ambassador Shigeru Kawagoe in Nanking for immediate cessation of the anti-Japanese movement throughout China.

The Japanese also made it clear that the grand fleet, which is on maneuvers with decks cleared for action, is prepared to proceed immediately to China waters if needed.

The general policy of the Japanese government, following the assassination in Shanghai by a Chinese gunman Wednesday night of a Japanese bluejacket, and earlier murders of five Japanese during the past year, appeared to have been fixed along the following lines:

Negotiation Continued.

Diplomatic negotiations in Nanking will be continued. This decision is important, meaning that the Tokyo foreign office has over-ruled the imperial navy—breaking the tradition of Japan's "dual diplomacy" under which the army and navy have been accustomed to act independently in foreign affairs directly concerning them—and will be in chare of settlement of the murders.

For the present Japan will "speak softly but carry a big stick," and

3 CITIES WELCOME AERIAL TOURISTS

Georgia Products Treasure Hunt Takes Planes Into Eastern Sections.

Thirty-one planes winged their way over eastern Georgia yesterday on the initial laps of the first Georgia Products Aerial Treasure Hunt.

Shortly before 10:30 o'clock the first plane in the air armada, a tri-motored ship piloted by Pete Clay, took off from Candler field carrying the public address system through which representatives of Georgia manufacturers will tell crowds along the route about Georgia products. Then, one by one, at two-minute intervals, other ships soared into the air and pointed their noses eastward toward Athens, the first stop.

Several hundred Athenians were at Epps field to welcome the fleet when it arrived there around 11 o'clock. The planes took 45 minutes to land. Around noon they again took the air, this time bound for Augusta, where a barbecue awaited them. The planes arrived at Augusta at 1:30 o'clock.

Night in Savannah.

At Savannah, where the participants stopped for the night, the Chamber of Commerce gave a banquet in their honor.

They were greeted with a program of speaking and then escorted by a police squadron to the city hall, where Mayor Gamble and Mayor Richard E. Allen, of Augusta, were among the speakers.

Andrew A. Smith, president of the Savannah chapter of the National Aeronautics Association, who acted as toastmaster at the dinner, was applauded for his speech, in which he said, "After January 1 we will have

WOODRING NAMED SECRETARY OF WAR TO SUCCEED DERN

Former Kansas Governor Gets Job Temporarily; Pledges To Carry Out Predecessor's Policies.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt tonight gave a recess appointment to Harry H. Woodring as secretary of war, temporarily filling the vacancy caused by the death of George H. Dern.

Woodring, a former governor of Kansas, has been acting as head of the War Department since Dern, a former governor of Utah, died late last month.

The White House announcement said the Woodring appointment was only temporary, but gave no indication whether he or someone else would be given the post permanently.

The announcement said that under the law the cabinet vacancy must be filled within 30 days.

Half a dozen other men have been mentioned for the War Department post, including Governor Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana, and Senator O'Mahony, of Wyoming.

Woodring came to Washington in March, 1933, as assistant secretary of war.

The appointment was announced by the President shortly after he returned from a drive through the countryside. Observers believed that in view of the temporary nature of the appointment the permanent appointment

MASONIC LEADER KILLED IN CRASH

Raymond McLeroy Dies of Injuries After Freak Accident on Motorcycle.

Raymond McLeroy, Atlanta attorney and past worshipful master of Cascade Masonic lodge, was fatally injured shortly before 9 o'clock last night in an unusual accident at the intersection of Cascade avenue, Beecher street and Westmont road.

His death marked the forty-seventh traffic fatality within the city limits since the first of the year, and the seventh this month.

According to police reports, McLeroy was waiting in a gasoline station, operated by a friend, Jack Dempsey, who was about to close the station and take him home on his motorcycle.

McLeroy, while waiting, straddled the motorcycle, accidentally putting it into gear and starting the motor. The vehicle suddenly leaped across Westmont road, crashing into a concrete wall forming part of the Sunday school building of the Cascade Avenue Baptist church.

McLeroy was thrown several feet into the air. He was taken to Grady hospital, where he died shortly after being admitted. Internal injuries and broken bones caused death.

He was a partner in the law firm of McLeroy & Pullin, with offices in the Connally building, and a graduate of the Atlanta Law School. He was 38. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Harry G. Poole.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. F. M. McLeroy; two sisters, Mrs. H. G. Cole, of Marietta, and Miss Laura Julia McLeroy, of Atlanta, and two brothers, M. F. McLeroy, of Miami, and Jerry McLeroy, of Atlanta.

Roosevelt Takes Hand In Pacific Strike Threat

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—(AP) A rapidly growing threat of another Pacific coast maritime strike drew the personal attention of President Roosevelt and other government officials tonight.

The President announced he would discuss the matter Wednesday with his newly appointed maritime commission. Assistant Secretary of Labor Edward F. McGrady made ready to leave Washington for San Francisco to take a hand in what he described as a "very grave" situation. New contracts are being negotiated.

The shipowners planned to hire longshoremen directly at the piers after Wednesday, but announced they would shut down waterfront operations if sufficient men failed to appear.

SPAIN'S PRESIDENT ASKS FOR REFUGE

Argentine Reports Azana Seeks Safety on Ship; Situation Is 'Chaotic.'

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Authoritative sources declared tonight Argentine officials in Madrid had informed the Buenos Aires government that Spanish President Manuel Azana had asked refuge aboard an Argentine cruiser off Spain.

These sources, close to the government, said the Argentine foreign office was told the situation in Madrid, harassed by Fascist Insurgents, was chaotic.

President Azana was quoted as asking for a haven on the Argentine cruiser 25 de Mayo, now at Alicante on Spain's southeast coast. Other members of the Spanish government also were reported to have sought refuge there.

MADRID MANEUVERS TO PINCH REBEL "Y"

MADRID, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The government tonight poured fighting men and steel in the wake of a flood loosed on the Fascist troops marching on Madrid.

Three divisions of government forces waded after the Fascists, whose attack was reported to have been quenched by 10,000,000 cubic yards of water spilled over the lowlands north of San Martin de Valdeiglesias from the dams of the Alberche river.

Heartened by cessation of the Insurgent advance on their capital city, the government leaders asserted a "decisive battle" was imminent beyond Talavera, where government forces strove to drive their foes back to Badajoz and Seville.

Government military leaders ordered a three-fold advance to prevent the Insurgents from approaching closer to Toledo and Madrid.

One column marched on the highway between Torrijos and Maqueda seeking to rout the Fascist advance on Toledo where their comrades in the besieged Alcazar were still unconquered after more than nine weeks of attacks.

A second column of government men was ordered to march west from Quismondo, headquarters of the government lines four miles west of Santa Cruz del Retamar. This column was to drive directly on Maqueda.

The third column, under General Julio Mangada, was to attack the Fascist rear guard units at Talavera de la Reina.

By these maneuvers the government military hoped to pinch out the forked Fascist advances on Toledo and Madrid, with Maqueda the vertex of the "Y."

MOBS ROAM CITY CRYING FOR BLOOD

Defenders Receive 20,000 Rifles, Drive Rebel Column Back 31 Miles in a Flanking Movement.

By ROBERT B. PARKER JR.

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press.)

BILBAO, Spain, Sept. 25.—Roaring mobs slaughtered 60 Fascist hostages tonight and ran through the streets screaming for more executions after hundreds of citizens were killed or injured in an insurgent aerial bombardment.

"Kill all the Rightists!" the infuiated mobs cried as they stormed government buildings and howled for their leaders to bring out all of the 4,000 hostages held here.

Rage stifled terror as the shouting men, women and children ran through the streets that for more than two hours had roared with explosions of 500-pound bombs from eight Fascist tri-motored planes flying so low that the features of the pilots were clearly discernible from the ground.

Nobody knew or ventured a guess on the actual toll of dead and wounded. One entire block of homes was razed by the heavy Fascist bombs.

Count 126 Dead.

Firemen and militiamen counted 126 dead, but they were still dragging more bodies from blasted homes.

Women and children dashed wildly to and fro to claim their dead, but most of the bodies were so mangled that identification was impossible.

As the Fascist planes, their deadly mission accomplished, droned off into the distance, mobs milled around the provincial government building and demanded hostages to kill.

Government leaders brought out 60 hostages and turned machine guns loose on them as the mobs shrieked for more.

Frenzied women plunged their

Charles Mion Jr. Hurt In Crash After Game

A Georgia Tech sophomore last night suffered a fractured skull in an automobile accident following Tech's victory over Presbyterian College.

Charles Mion Jr., 19, of 174 The Prado, driving several other Tech students in his car, crashed into a telephone pole and then struck a tree at the corner of Fourteenth and Tumlin streets when a passenger grabbed the steering wheel and caused the car to get out of control, the injured youth told police at Grady hospital, where he was admitted for treatment.

Mion said the fellow student declared he thought their car was going to strike another car in front and grabbed the wheel to prevent an accident. Mion's condition was said to be serious last night at the hospital.

will restrain her army and navy leaders in China from "precipitate actions."

Care will be taken to prepare world opinion and justify Japan's actions in advance before any vigorous military action is taken.

Taminato's funeral with full military honors was held late yesterday, on the quarterdeck of the Japanese flagship Idzumo, which is anchored off Shanghai's waterfront.

Formal Protest Made.

In Nanking Japan's diplomatic activity appeared to be following traditional lines. Consul General Suma lodged a formal protest with the Chinese foreign office covering the Taminato murder and the earlier assassination in Hankow of Seijiro Yoshioka, a Japanese consular policeman, branding these murders as part of a definitely planned campaign of "anti-Japanese terrorism." He demanded a guarantee of the non-recurrence of anti-Japanese attacks and the usual indemnities.

The really important negotiations were taking place in secret—between Ambassador Kawagoe and Foreign Minister Chang Chun. Chang, it was understood, dispatched secretaries to Canton to consult Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, supreme authority in the Nanking government. The secretaries were reported to have carried definite Japanese demands, the chief of which was one giving the Japanese army a free hand in North China where it wants virtually independent and pro-Japanese governments established in the five North China provinces.

Shanghai Quiet.

Shanghai continued quiet. British patrols were withdrawn from the garden bridge, which connects the British and Japanese defense sectors of the International Settlement, and the Japanese withdrew most of their patrols from Chinese territory adjacent to the areas in the settlement they occupied with armed forces immediately after Taminato was shot. The Japanese, however, continued in control of the areas surrounding the Rokusan Gardens which house the finest Japanese restaurant and Geisha house in Shanghai.

Identity of the Japanese warships which arrived off the port was not revealed but it was understood they were destroyers and were anchored off Woosung, down-river port of Shanghai, at the mouth of the Yangtse river.

Japanese said that two cruisers, six destroyers, 12 gunboats, "and some additional ships and men" now were off the coast or in the Yangtse.

THREE CITIES GREET AIR TOURIST PLANES

an air-minded man in the governor's chair, in the person of Ed Rivers."

Planes entered in the treasure hunt ranged in size from tiny one-passenger ships to tri-motored machines that accommodate a dozen passengers.

Wiley Wright, of the United States Commerce Department, took command of the aviators from one of the three planes entered by his department. Four army planes escorted the tour.

From all sections of the southeast, pilots and plane owners flew to Atlanta to enter the aerial treasure hunt and inspection of Georgia. Stops scheduled for the air armada today include Waycross, Valdosta, Albany, Americus and Columbus. Tomorrow the tour will visit Macon and Griffin before returning to Atlanta.

Mike Benton Speaks.

Mike Benton, president of the Southeastern Fair Association, is addressing crowds which gather at each airport, describing to them the products that are being carried on the tour. He also is outlining the program for this year's fair.

Georgia manufacturers are sponsoring many of the planes in the hunt and have arranged to place samples of their products on exhibit at the airports of the cities visited.

The treasure hunt is sponsored by the National Aeronautic Association and the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, in co-operation with various Chambers of Commerce of the state.

Pilots engaging in the treasure hunt are required to locate clues on the various airports. A record is kept of the time each pilot takes to locate all the clues and the flyer with the best record will be presented with a trophy and $100 prize at an informal banquet at the Ansley hotel tomorrow night. Several other prizes have been offered.

John K. Ottley Jr. is general chairman of the Georgia Products Aerial Treasure Hunt, and Ralph Lockwood made arrangements for programs in the Georgia cities.

MALTED MILK MAGNATE, WILLIAM HORLICK, DIES

RACINE, Wis., Sept. 25.—(AP)—William Horlick, malted milk magnate, philanthropist and patron of science, died today of heart disease at his home here. Although he was 90, he had been active until a few years ago in affairs of the Horlick Malted Milk corporation, which he founded and headed.

Born in Gloucestershire, England, February 23, 1846, Horlick came to the United States in 1869, and to Racine in 1875. Here he organized his malted milk manufacturing process and developed a picturesque plant, modeled after an old English manor.

'Tourists' Take to Skies for First Georgia Products Treasure Hunt

The first plane to take off in the first Georgia Products Aerial Treasure Hunt is shown here as it soared aloft yesterday morning at the Atlanta municipal airport. In the background are seen hangars and the administration building. Leading the armada of 43 planes yesterday were army and Department of Commerce planes. Hundreds of Georgians will greet the pilots as they land in airports throughout the state to seek clues leading to a grand prize. The planes will return at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. FRANCE WILL DEVALUE CURRENCY ONE-THIRD

6. The Bourse—stock market—will be closed for several days; the franc market will be strictly controlled.

7. The government will move to spend millions of francs to aid towns, departments, mortgage holders, co-operatives, business interests and individuals that may be hurt by the franc's realignment or the resultant increase in prices.

The new monetary bills, under emergency procedure, will be pushed through parliament in perhaps one day. Already, the new council of administration of the Bank of France was in session, discussing application of the government's decision. One of its duties will be to prevent speculation which might impede the government's plans.

3 Months of Talk.

Three months of secret negotiations, spurred by an immense outflow of gold shipments abroad in the last few weeks, led up to completion of the tripartite accord, which Finance Minister Vincent Auriol called "a declaration of an economic and monetary entente between three democracies—the start of monetary peace."

The finance minister, speaking informally after reading the declaration, declared:

"The common declaration I just have read is a declaration of an economic and monetary entente of three democracies, the French, the English and the American.

"They propose it for the adhesion of the nations of the world.

"I thank the governments of London and Washington for their precious collaboration.

"I thank particularly M. Morgenthau and M. Chamberlain (United States secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau Jr., and Chancellor of the British Exchequer Neville Chamberlain).

"My American colleague just has addressed to me by telephone his warm wishes for the prosperity of France."

The tri-power announcement was made almost simultaneously in London, Washington and Paris.

In it, the three governments declared their intentions to use "appropriate available resources so as to avoid as far as possible any disturbance of the basis of international exchange," resulting from the realignment of the franc.

The agreement also stated there would be such consultation for this purpose as becomes necessary.

Wall Street Pleased.

A number of Wall Street leaders described the step as "highly constructive." London financial circles looked for stimulation of international trade.

Economists explained the move to readjust currency values gained impetus following the removal of the British pound from its old gold standard five years ago.

That disturbed much of the rest of the world, since more than half of the world's trade is financed through British and related currencies, and it tended to reduce price levels in the United States and other important countries.

But now, since currency readjustments are largely completed in the leading monetary powers save France and a few of her smaller neighbors, and because but little of the world's international trade is financed in French currency, it was explained that readjustment of the franc may be regarded as accomplishing a final and probably unavoidable realignment.

Reasons.

The period of fluctuating currencies, which became acute when England left the gold standard, had severely hampered world trade because it was impossible to tell what amount of one currency a given amount of another currency would buy at a future time. It therefore became difficult to make international business commitments in advance.

Furthermore, countries like France which maintained its pre-depression gold parity, found goods of other countries with depreciating currencies becoming cheaper and cheaper, and in consequence France and similarly situated nations found increasing need to hoist tariffs and other restrictions on imports.

Similar to U. S. Action.

The plan of revaluing the franc, as announced by the French government, is similar to the procedure used in the United States, in that the government will ask parliament to call in all gold in the country at its present value. This will prevent French hoarders from making big profits by converting their gold into francs of smaller gold content after the franc's gold value has been reduced.

France was forced into the new monetary policy by a series of pertinent developments, informed quarters asserted.

Shipments of gold were used for payments abroad because of an unfavorable trade balance, and the dwindling gold reserve precipitated speculations which depleted the Bank of France's reserve.

(The last statement of the Bank of France showed gold reserves at approximately 50,000,000,000 francs, set as the minimum of the French "war chest.")

43 MILLION MARKED FOR U. S. IN FRANCE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—American engagements of gold in France today reached a total of $43,532,000, the largest single day's taking this year, it was announced by the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

Since the flow of gold from France began August 7 a total of $197,700,000 has come to this country or been engaged for American account. Gold engagements from all countries in that period amounted to $239,800,000.

Full Text of Treasury Statement On Monetary Accord With Paris

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Here is the text of the statement issued by the treasury tonight regarding co-operation with France in a realignment of the latter's currency:

"By authority of the President, the secretary of the treasury makes the following statement:

"1. The government of the United States, after consultation with the British government and the French government, joins with them in affirming a common desire to foster those conditions which safeguard economic relations and to pursue a policy which will tend to promote prosperity in the world and to improve the standard of living of peoples.

"2. The government of the United States must, of course, in its policy towards international monetary relations to take into full account the requirements of internal prosperity, as corresponding considerations will be taken into account by the governments of France and Great Britain; it welcomes this opportunity to reaffirm its purpose to continue the policy which it has pursued in the course of recent years, one constant object of which is to maintain the greatest possible equilibrium in the system of international exchange and to avoid to the utmost extent the creation of any disturbance of that system by American monetary action.

"The government of the United States shares with the governments of France and Great Britain the conviction that the continuation of this two-fold policy will serve the general purpose which all the governments should pursue.

"3. The French government informs the United States government that, judging that the desired stability of the principal currencies cannot be insured on a solid basis except after the re-establishment of a lasting equilibrium between the various economic systems, it has decided with this object to propose to its parliament the readjustment of its currency.

"The government of the United States, of also the British government, has welcomed this decision in the hope that it will establish more solid foundations for the stability of international economic relations.

"The United States government, as also the British and French governments, declares its intentions to continue to use appropriate available resources so as to avoid as far as possibe any disturbance of the basis of international exchange resulting from the proposed readjustment. It will arrange for such consultation for this purpose as may prove necessary with the other two governments and their authorized agencies.

"4. The government of the United States is moreover convinced, as are also the governments of France and Great Britain, that the success of the policy set forth above is linked with the development of international trade. In particular it attaches the greatest importance to action being taken without delay to relax progressively the present system of quotas and exchange controls with a view to their abolition.

"5. The government of the United States, in common with the governments of France and Great Britain, desires and invites the co-operation of the other nations to realize the policy laid down in the present declaration. It trusts that no country will attempt to obtain an unreasonable competitive exchange advantage and thereby hamper the effort to restore more stable economic relations which it is the aim of the three governments to promote."

TRAIN KILLS MAN ON GEORGIA ROAD

Rockdale Citizen Dies Instantly, Companion Hurt Near Conyers.

CONYERS, Ga., Sept. 25.—A man identified as Tom Skinner was killed and a companion, said to be Turner Owens, was badly injured when struck near here tonight by an east-bound Georgia passenger train.

Engineer E. E. Newsom reported the men were sitting on the track about one-half mile west of Conyers and that he did not see them in time to stop the train. Both men were said to be WPA workers and employed on a job at Rutledge, going to and from that point daily on a truck. They were seen in Conyers early tonight.

Both men have lived in Rockdale county several months, it was said here, but little is known of them, and it had not been ascertained tonight if they have families.

Owens was taken to an Atlanta hospital. He is not expected to live. The body of Skinner, which was badly mangled, was taken to a local undertaker's establishment.

Conductor W. C. Clary was in charge of the train, which was delayed here an hour before proceeding eastward. The train left Atlanta at 9 o'clock, Atlanta time, and was due here at 10 o'clock.

LABOR CHIEF DENIES RADICALS FOR F. D. R.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Daniel J. Tobin, labor chairman of the Democratic national committee, tonight described as "unfair and untrue" charges "by a large newspaper chain that Franklin D. Roosevelt has the support of Communists and Radicals."

"Instead," he said in a nation-wide broadcast, "the papers should have stated that Franklin D. Roosevelt has the support of every conservative labor leader in America, with one or two exceptions, including the heads of railroad organizations, who have been known to be extremely conservative, the heads of the printing trades, and the heads of nearly all of the miscellaneous groups or trades."

MARKHAM IMPROVES AFTER RECENT STROKE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Edwin Markham, 84-year-old poet and author of "The Man With the Hoe," recently suffered an apoplectic stroke, it was disclosed at his Staten Island home tonight where he was said to be recovering satisfactorily.

Members of his family said he was stricken about three weeks ago on his return from a summer as lecturer at the University of Mexico. His present condition was said to be not serious.

handkerchiefs in the pools of blood where the prisoners had died.

Mob Promised Blood.

As the mobs around the government buildings grew in size and violence, Eliadore De La Tore, Nationalist chief, came to a balcony and shouted that they would have the satisfaction they demanded.

During the bombarment a heavy bomb exploded in the Alameda De Recalde, a huge hole in the pavement in front of the French consulate. The consul was injured.

The terrified populace, men, women and children, ran wildly through the streets, their cries for their loved ones drowned by the roaring explosions of the heavy aerial bombs.

Firemen, disdaining their own personal safety, rushed into the wreckage and dragged out body after body.

The governor's palace and the provincial parliament building were among the structures partly wrecked.

Earlier, Spanish government forces were reported to have driven 31 miles south of Bilbao in a desperate effort to cut off Insurgent communications at the strategic highway city of Vitoria.

If the government forces should capture Vitoria in their counter attack on the besiegers of Bilbao, they would be able to drive a wedge through the San Sebastian-Burgos highway.

San Sebastian is in Insurgent hands, and the seat of the Fascist junta is in Burgos, hence the highway is of the utmost importance to the Insurgents.

The government fighting men, reports reaching France said, in a sudden offensive, drove a column of Fascists under General Emilio Mola back almost to the gates of Vitoria. Other units pounded at the center of the Insurgent line menacing Escoriaza.

The government forces were issued 20,000 new rifles and 20,000,000 cartridges, landed from Scandinavian freighters.

REBELS BOLSTER FORCES FOR PUSH TO ALCAZAR

TALAVERA DE LA REINA, Spain, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Trained Fascist troops, determined to capture Toledo and liberate their besieged comrades within the Alcazar fortress, tonight paused to bolster their lines outside Toledo.

The swift advance was slowed down by Insurgent commanders, cautious lest their columns be outflanked by the 10,000 government militiamen they believed were lined up across their line of march.

The insurgent columns rested on their guns tonight less than 10 miles from Toledo, waiting for artillery units they had outstripped to catch up with them.

The Madrid government tonight ordered one column of fighting men to march on Torrijos, behind the Fascists' advance units, in an effort to cut off and surround the Toledo attackers.

In contrast to their swift advances during the past few days, the Insurgent leaders restrained their troops, hesitating to expose their flying columns to attacks from the sides.

Outside Maqueda, the Insurgent leaders were informed, another column of Fascist were similarly being held in check to consolidate their newly-won positions.

(The Insurgent high command tonight sought to nullify government assertions that a specially contrived flood had washed back their advance with severe casualties.)

will not be acted upon until after election.

WOODRING TO FOLLOW GEORGE DERN'S POLICIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Harry H. Woodring pledged tonight to carry out, as secretary of war, the policies inaugurated by his predecessor for "an adequate national defense in the interest of peace for our nation."

On the announcement of his temporary elevation from the assistant secretaryship to the cabinet post, Woodring, a former governor of Kansas and a World War veteran, said:

"I am very grateful to the President for the confidence he has placed in me. My experience as assistant secretary makes me realize the heavy responsibility I will have in discharging the duties of the office.

To Carry Out Policies.

"To the best of my ability I will endeavor to carry out the policies inaugurated and developed by my distinguished predecessor and close friend, the late Honorable George H. Dern.

"If I may do anything to further found an adequate national defense in the interest of peace for our nation I shall feel well repaid for every effort."

As assistant secretary Woodring has been in charge of all procurement for the army, including large purchases of aircraft the past two years under a five-year program to build up that branch of the service.

Was Acting Head.

He was the active head of the War Department during the long illness of Secretary Dern. Upon Dern's death August 26, he automatically became acting secretary.

In addition to Woodring, those who have been mentioned as possibilities for appointment to serve permanently as secretary of war include Frank Murphy, high commissioner to the Philippines; Governor Paul V. McNutt, of Indiana; Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, of New York, and Senator O'Mahoney, of Wyoming.

WOODRING IS FORMER KANSAS GOVERNOR

NEODESHA, Kan., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Harry H. Woodring's recess appointment as secretary of war brought to the head of the army a former private whose career since the World War has been one of spectaular advancement in business and politics.

Woodring took his longest strides politically—his first carried him to the Kansas governorship, and his second into President Roosevelt's official family.

Woodring was born May 31, 1890. Before he entered politics, he had retired from business practically independent financially, at the early age of 38.

He entered the army as an enlisted man during the war and emerged as a second lieutenant, having been held in the United States as a personnel officer.

In April, 1933, Woodring was named assistant secretary of war.

While in Washington Woodring met Miss Helen Coolidge, daughter of Senator Marcus Coolidge, of Massachusetts. They were married July 25, 1933. A son, Marcus, was born to them June 19, 1934, and a daughter, Melissa, June 21, 1935.

After today, the weather man said, the weather will be a little warmer but continued fair, with no immediate prospect of rain in sight.

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., Sept. 25.—(AP)—George Olive, Dundee, Fla, filling station operator, was being held in the Polk county jail at Bartow today charged with killing Oscar M. Hall, 39, husband of the Dundee postmaster.

Deputies who investigated said Hall and Olive argued at the latter's filling statio nand the disagreement ended in a fight. They said Olive told them Hall cut him with a knife and he used a gun in self-defense. Hall was killed instantly.

F. D. R. THANKS SMITH FOR RADIO COURTESY

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP) Alfred E. Smith's decision to postpone his radio speech from New York the night of October 1 until after President Roosevelt had concluded his address at Pittsburgh brought a message of thanks today from the chief executive.

In a telegram to the President, Smith said he was taking the action "in deference to the high office of President which you hold" and that he did not desire to "interfere with your having a nation-wide audience."

Secretary Marvin H. MacIntyre, replying to the telegram today said: "The President has asked me to thank you very much for your telegram."

Coughlin Terms F.D.R 'Anti-God'; Second Vatican Warning Expected

Orator's Bishop Voices No Concern Over Probable Criticism.

COUGHLIN STYLES F. D. R. "ANTI-GOD"

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt is "anti-God," Father Charles E. Coughlin declared at a National Union for Social Justice rally here.

Terming restrictions on farm products "unchristian and radical," the Royal Oak, Mich., priest declared:

"The Bible commands, 'increase and multiply,' but Roosevelt says destroy and devastate, and therefore I call him anti-God and radical.

"I wish to assure you that I hold no chagrin against Mr. Roosevelt. It's Mr. Roosevelt the incompetent president whom we must remove from office if we are to save America for 'we the people.'"

At another point he said:

"When any upstart dictator . . . succeeds in making of this nation a one-party form of government, and the ballot becomes useless, I shall have the courage to stand up and advocate the use of bullets."

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A second Vatican "warning" to the Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, was held a future possibility tonight by prelates who pondered his public declaration that President Roosevelt was "anti-God."

Vatican prelates, studying Father Coughlin's remarks about the President of the United States, did not believe they could be reconciled with the belief by authoritative Vatican circles that in every polemic authorities should be respected.

The prelates recalled the authoritative Vatican newspaper Osservatore Romano recently rebuked the Royal Oak radio priest after a political speech in which Father Coughlin termed the President a "liar."

Despite Coughlin's apologies after the "liar" appellation, the Osservatore held it was not proper for a priest to attack constituted authority in any nation.

Father Coughlin's "anti-God" definition of the President was made during a speech at Cincinnati Thursday, in which he declared Mr. Roosevelt "says destroy and devastate," contrary to Biblical tenets.

The orator also declared he would urge "the use of bullets" if an "upstart dictator" voided the ballot.

The prelates said that although the Osservatore's previous rebuke of Coughlin was a newspaper criticism, nevertheless it reflected authoritatively the views of the Pope on the matter.

Continued personal attacks by Coughlin as priest against the President of the United States were contrary to the Pope's wishes, the prelates said.

Because of this, they said, the Osservatore might be called upon to publish a second and stronger "warning" to Father Coughlin.

BISHOP REITERATES PRESS NO AUTHORITY

DETROIT, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Most Rev. Michael J. Gallagher, Catholic bishop of Detroit, said at press conference today he shared the views of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin on bearing arms if an "upstart dictator" made the ballot useless.

"When the American people get so sheepish they will not fight for their liberties they are going to lose them," the bishop said. "Father Coughlin obviously was answering a hypothetical question, 'What should be done in the event of a communist dictatorship?'

"We know what communism has done in Spain, Mexico and Russia. What would you do if we had a communist dictatorship here? Stand and take it? There are hundreds of Americans who would say what Father Coughlin said. The American Legion undoubtedly would say the same thing."

On reports that the Osservatore Romano, Vatican newspaper, might issue a second "warning" to Father Coughlin to moderate his references to President Roosevelt, Bishop Gallagher said:

"The Osservatore Romano is no authority over me. That report must have come from that unnamed 'high American prelate' again."

PRIEST ANNOUNCES HE'LL "KEEP GOING"

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—(AP) The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin told reporters tonight he expected no rebuke from the Vatican and planned "to keep going" the same as he has been.

"I am not going to call him (Roosevelt) a liar. There are other words in the English language. I am not going to attack him personally, but objectively.

"I am not going on record as saying that he has done anything maliciously. I will say that I think he is a victim of those who have circumscribed him—Hopkins, Tugwell and the rest of the litany of pinks."

CINCINNATI BISHOP CRITICIZES COUGHLIN

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Most Rev. John T. McNicholas, archbishop of the Cincinnati archdiocese of the Roman Catholic church, issued a statement tonight condemning Father Charles E. Coughlin's assertion that President Roosevelt was "anti-God."

He also protested and condemned Coughlin's statement "that he advocates the use of bullets."

Archbishop McNicholas said: "Father Coughlin knows the meaning of anti-God in its broad acceptation and the definite meaning now attached to it. I am making no statement for or against President Roosevelt, for or against the Republican, Democratic or Union parties, but I am insisting, as a public moral teacher, that Father Coughlin transgressed bounds if he made the statement attributed to him—that President Roosevelt is anti-God."

"ROTHSCHILD" AUTHOR, GEORGE HIPPISLEY, DIES

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—George Hippisley, 71, author of the film story, "The House of Rothschild," died today.

Better known by his pen name, George Hembert Westley, he won with his screen success fame he little wanted and publicity that broke through the shell of secrecy with which he had surrounded himself.

Death came suddenly at the home of a friend. Doctors said heart and glandular trouble was the cause.

For the past few months he had been working on a new play.

He had written several plays besides "The House of Rothschild," among them "A Man's Game."

He was born in Newfoundland. He never married. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Taylor, of Newfoundland; Mrs. Ida Whitman, of Florida, and two brothers, Arch Munn Hippisley, of Auburn, N. Y., and James Hippisley, of Florida.

LANDON TRADE SPEECH INACCURATE, HULL SAYS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Secretary Hull in a statement today said that Governor Alf M. Landon's discussion of reciprocal trade policy in a speech at Minneapolis last night was "confused, inaccurate and incoherent."

The secretary of state, who directs the administration's reciprocal trade treaty program, asserted that "what the governor is in effect now proposing is a direct and automatic return to Smoot-Hawleyism."

LOUISIANA DISORDERS IN RAIL STRIKE ENDED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 25.—(AP) Louisiana and Arkansas trains were moving today as strike disorders ebbed.

Nearly a score of armed men have been arrested during the past few days at cities along the company lines in Louisiana, Arkansas and Texas. But today officials prevailed upon the railroad and strike sympathizers to drop armed guards and refrain from carrying firearms.

L. & A. officials were investigating the derailment of several cars of a freight train last night in Shreveport, which tied up traffic for several hours.

Child Risks Own Life In Rescuing His Dog

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Eleven-year-old Orville Bruce smiled today from his hospital cot and asked about his dog, "Tony."

The child had seen his pet asleep in the road near his home in Sissonville and a car approaching. The dog didn't respond to a whistle, so Orville dashed out, pushed Tony aside and was hit himself by the car.

"Is Tony all right?" he asked.

The nurse assured him his quick action saved the animal.

Orville sighed, "I'd do it again, too," and went back to sleep.

Doctors said the child's skull may be fractured and that his body is bruised and lacerated.

SCHOOL BOARD SPURNS DEMAND FROM UNION

JASPER, Ala., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Walker county board of education today refused a union demand that County Superintendent A. S. Scott be asked to resign as a result of disagreement with union leaders over employment of members of the American Federation of Classroom Teachers.

A committee named at a union mass meeting today presented the proposal to the board, which immediately rejected it.

Union spokesman declined to deny or affirm reports pickets would be placed at Walker county schools Monday to increase ranks of striking school children. Union sources have estimated 8,000 children absent in the movement.

The proposal indorsed by the mass meeting also asked the county board guarantee members of the federation would not be "subjected to discrimination."

The strike of Walker county school children resulted from the refusal of the county superintendent to offer new contracts to three teachers. Union leaders said the men were fired because of their activity in the union."

She was stricken by a heart attack at the home at 335 Ivy street.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. A. Griffin and Miss Elizabeth Doonan, both of New York, and a niece, Miss Martha Doonan, of Baltimore.

LONG TERMS METED IN ROBBERY, ATTACK

Three negroes were given heavy sentences yesterday on charges of robbery and an attempted assault on a white woman.

Judge E. E. Pomeroy sentenced Tom Henry Yancey, 18, and George Peterson to 25 to 30 years after juries had found them guilty of robbery and assault. Walter Yancey, alias Brown, entered a plea to five robbery charges and was sentenced to serve 20 years. He is also under indictment in the assault case.

TEACHER TRANSFERRED, 900 STUDENTS STRIKE

CAMPBELL, Ohio, Sept. 25.—(AP) A strike of 900 pupils because of the transfer of a favorite teacher closed all classes at Memorial High school today.

The students protested the transfer of Michael Graban to an elementary school. Superintendent Andrew Klinko said lower enrollment at Memorial this year necessitated the elimination of some classes, and consequently the transfer of some teacher, including Graban.

Graban said he had protested against being transferred to the grade school.

PROBE EXPOSES AGENCY OF ROBERT PINKERTON

$6,000,000 Paid by U. S. Industrialists, Senate Committee Discloses.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(UP) American industrialists paid the Pinkerton National Detective Agency nearly $6,000,000 in the past two and one-half years and $2,000,000 of it was applied to spying on union labor organization work and radical activities, the senate civil liberties committee disclosed today.

Secret details of the agency's operations extending from coast to coast were bared for the first time by its 32-year-old president, Robert A. Pinkerton, and a group of his shrewd, well-tailored executives.

Revelations Cited.

Revelations included:

1. Union officers were hired by the Pinkerton organization to spy on their brother workers.
2. A total of $150,000 has been spent thus far this year for industrial espionage through the Pinkerton agency.
3. Pinkerton operators were ordered to discontinue filing written reports on their investigations after the company correspondence had been subpoenaed by the committee.
4. The Pinkerton office in Milwaukee, Wis., was abandoned after passage of a state law forcing detective agencies to register the names of their operators.
5. Five per cent of the Pinkerton operators are women.
6. Fisher Bodies Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors, was billed $1,300 for services by Pinkerton at "tool and dye makers picnic" from August 4, 1933 to November 30, 1933.
7. Pinkerton agents obtained information on radical activities in Denver, Col., from a Major Harring, cavalry officer at Fort Logan, Col.

Inquiry Recessed.

The committee recessed its inquiry today subject to the call of the chair. It is expected to be resumed around November 1, when it was reported Pearl Bergoff, self-styled "king of strikebreakers," may be summoned. The investigation is a forerunner of legislation designed to eliminate or curb drastically the activities of private detective agencies and other organizations engaging in strikebreaking and labor espionage.

The scene today was packed with drama. In the center of the horseshoe desk sat Senator Robert M. La Follette, progressive, Wisconsin, chairman of the committee, and his colleague, Senator Elbert Thomas, Democrat, Utah. Directly facing them were two men who control the activities of more than 1,000 men and women, who carry on the work begun 86 years ago by Allen Pinkerton.

One was the founder's great-grandson, well-built, steely-eyed Robert Pinkerton. He is a Harvard graduate, speaks with a British accent and drew dividends in 1935 of $129,500 from the agency. He owns 70 per cent of the 1,000 shares of common stock in the company. The remainder of the shares are owned by his two aunts, Mrs. Anna Gibb, and Mrs. Mary Carlisle. He is the last of the Pinkertons if he dies without issue.

"Hope Name Won't Die."

"I hope the name won't die," he told newspapermen today. "But I'm still young."

The other was Asher Rossiter, vice-president and general manager. He became a Pinkerton man 49 years ago when the underworld feared "a Pink" as much as its characters shun a "G-man" today. Ruddy-faced, silver-haired and snorting an occasional "huh" at La Follette, Rossiter reminisced about ethics of his profession as laid down by the founder of the agency and of changes in operations that have become necessary in the new industrial state.

From an office boy he rose to the high position he holds today, which paid him $12,000 in 1935. He nodded proudly as Ray L. Burnside, assistant superintendent of the Detroit office, flatly refused to give the name of a union official in Toledo, O., who is on the Pinkerton payroll as a spy. Later when La Follette inquired why his office was receiving no more written reports from operators, he said bluntly:

"Because I told them not to write any more."

He laughed with La Follette and spectators when the Fisher Bodies "picnic" charge was brought up and the Wisconsin senator asked:

"That was about the longest picnic on record, wasn't it?"

Company Has Right.

"It was pretty long, judging from the record," Rossiter smiled.

He estimated that one-third of the agency's income came from industrial espionage, which was stoutly defended by Pinkerton.

"A company has a perfect right," said Pinkerton, "to employ agents to find out what is going on in their plant, to protect their property and guard against radical operations. If you had a plant wouldn't you want to know these things?"

"Certainly not by the methods shown," snapped La Follette.

Rossiter said Pinkerton had not employed strikebreakers for more than 40 years and did not furnish guards to manufacturers to keep plants open in the face of a strike.

Both Rossiter and Pinkerton emphasized that the agency did no sleuthing on divorce cases.

"But you think it is proper and ethical to hire a man to spy upon a fellow worker?" asked La Follette.

Rossiter said, "Yes." Pinkerton nodded in the affirmative.

Neither could give La Follette their definition of a "Communist," but Rossiter said he understood the term to mean "one whose whole purpose is destruction." Joseph Littlejohn, superintendent of the Atlanta office of the agency, said industrial espionage constituted about 25 per cent of the organization's business, but replied, "No," when asked if any Communists ever had been found in southern plants.

NEW TRIAL REFUSED.

TEXARKANA, Texas, Sept. 25.—(AP)—District Judge R. H. Harvey overruled today a motion for a new trial for A. C. Ward, Texarkana grocer sentenced to 35 years in prison last Saturday for murder and arson. Ward was convicted of engineering a $75,000 fire in which J. H. Van Zan, elderly mystic, died last March 20.

Union Agrees To End Minneapolis Strike

MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 25.—(UP)—The strike of flour and cereal workers in the Aracher-Daniels-Midland Linseed Mill, focal point of violence in Minneapolis labor difficulties, was settled late today. Workers will return to their jobs Monday.

Settlement was announced after a day-long meeting of striking unionists with federal mediators. The announcement was expected to ease tension which brought mobolization of national guard troops by Governor Hjalmar Peterson.

Mill officials signed a stipulation that rights of laborers to bargain collectively will be recognized and union leaders agreed to call of the strike.

Wallace Says Landon's Farm Plan Would End Worse Than '32 Smash

"Greedy, Ignorant Forces of G. O. P. Party Have Not Learned Lesson," Secretary Says in Radio Broadcast to Kansan.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Secretary Wallace said here tonight that "the agricultural proposals put forward by Governor Landon" and the Republican party "would end in a smash worse than 1932."

In an address broadcast by the Democratic national committee, replying to a speech by the Republican presidential candidate at Des Moines, Iowa, Tuesday night, Wallace broadened his remarks to assert:

"The greedy and ignorant forces behind the national Republican party have not learned the lesson of 1932 but are willing again to plunge us into that tragic chaos."

"Ninety-eight out of 100 big bankers are for Landon," Wallace said. "Ninety-eight out of 100 of the big corporation executives are for Landon. No man big enough to run for president can be a complete ingrate."

G. O. P. Contributors.

The secretary said "Landon will not and should not let the big contributors to his campaign funds suffer from his ingratitude."

He contended that "the state campaign in Maine tells us who some of these men are" and "the Liberty League roll gives us the names of others."

"The munitions maker, oil men, power magnates, big packers and grain gamblers are the men who always have attacked farm programs and who are now fighting Roosevelt," he added.

Turning back to the farm problem, the secretary said Landon "would do away with the soil conservation act as soon as 1936 obligations have been carried out, and, of course there would be no production control."

Asserting Landon had promised farmers "enough cash benefits" to assure them "an American price" for the part of crops used in this country, Wallace contended this would encourage expansion of crops so that federal funds for payments "might easily go over a billion dollars a year."

Fate of Farmers.

This plan, Wallace said, "could not possibly last through two years of ordinary weather. Some time in the second year the crash would come."

"This time the farmers' fate would be truly appalling because no political party would have the nerve to give them effective help," the secretary added. "All political parties would say—'it is political suicide to give real help to farmers. They won't stand by you. All they want is promises'."

Earlier, both Wallace and Secretary Hull had issued statements challenging the speech last night by Governor Landon on the reciprocal tariff. Hull said the Republican nominee's speech was "confused, inaccurate and incoherent." Wallace said Landon was in "serious error" in his discussion of the effect of the Canadian treaty on cheddar cheese.

Wallace contended the Republicans "in the decade of the 20's used private money, gathered by the international bankers from trusting American investors, to finance the purchase by foreigners of our surplus farm products."

"Now they propose to give the nation more of the same kind of thing," he commented.

G. O. P. Seeks High Tariff.

From 1921 to 1932, Wallace said, "the only solution the Republicans had for the farm problem was higher and higher tariffs and the farm board."

"They are trying to lead the American farmers into the trap of producing in expanding quantities for a foreign market which Republican tariff policies in a large measure destroyed, and which they themselves admit does not exist," he added.

The secretary said "Governor Landon is giving us words which sound good in a year of drouth. But he has no plan of action which would prevent disaster to the farmer and laboring man alike in case we should have one or two years of good weather."

Expressing confidence Governor Landon would not be elected, Wallace said voters had "too fresh" a memory "of the scarcity, the breadlines, and the foreclosures of 1932 with its 30-cent wheat, 5-cent cotton, 3-cent hogs and 15-cent corn."

Landon, Wallace said, was "appearing to be a friend of commodity crop loans" but was "actually against them except on a basis of private banking."

The secretary contended that Landon's "proposed system of federal farm mortgage receipts is probably unconstitutional in the case of a commodity like corn which is not destined to move in interstate commerce." In support Wallace cited a supreme court decision last term.

Against Normal Granary.

He said the Republican candidate "is against the ever-normal granary" although he thinks "crop insurance is worthy of study."

"Governor Landon is against tenancy but he has no proposal for doing anything that is not now being done by the Farm Credit Administration," the secretary added.

Concerning soil conservation, Wallace said the Republican leader would "wipe out" the present "triple-A program" and substitute "a program of his own."

He reported "four million farmers in every state of the Union" now are taking part in the AAA program, adding, "but their wishes are apparently of no consequence to Mr. Landon."

Asserting the Landon program was indefinite, Wallace said "he did not say whether payments under his program would be higher or lower than the present payments, but he did indicate that a farmer would have to prove himself a pauper to get any payment at all."

GRAND JURY PROTESTS EXONERATION MOVE

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A strongly-worded protest against Governor Herbert H. Lehman's exoneration of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, of Kings county on charges the prosecutor demonstrated gross negligence in his prosecution of the Sam Drukman murder case was sent to the governor today by 17 members of the special grand jury which preferred the charges.

"We are shocked at your failure to remove the district attorney," the letter stated in part. "We are also shocked at the tone and content of your opinion accompanying your decision."

In the letter, the grand jury members charged the governor "obscured the facts," and criticized Mr. Lehman for failing to review the evidence in his decision.

Geoghan was summoned before the governor at a hearing at Albany early this month. Last week the governor announced his decision exonerating the prosecutor.

LANDON CAMPAIGNS THROUGH WISCONSIN

ABOARD LANDON SPECIAL, EN ROUTE TO OSHKOSH, Wis., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Governor Alf M. Landon campaigned across Wisconsin today seeking the 12 presidential electoral votes held by the home state of the La Follette Progressive party.

Halting his special train half a dozen times as he traveled through rolling hill country toward an overnight stop at Oshkosh, the Republican candidate reiterated criticisms of the Roosevelt administration's reciprocal trade agreements and said its policies had placed farmers under a "handicap."

The goal of the two-day tour of the Badger state was a Milwaukee speech tomorrow night, the third of his farm belt swing, in which the nominee planned to discuss social security. The Kansan already was on record with a pledge to "amend the social security act and make it workable," but had not yet detailed his views. He finished his speech on the train today.

ARMED BRITISH AID FOR U. S. FORECAST

Young Churchill Says England Would Back U. S. Against Japan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Randolph Churchill, youthful British journalist and Tory political leader, predicted today Britain will come to the aid of the United States "if your country is ever being done in by Japan in a war."

As for Hitler, young Churchill said "We are all mugs if we let him make a world issue of Communism and Fascism—an unreal issue as both are dictatorships."

In his first interview since arriving here Monday, the blond scion of Brittain's house of Marlborough and son of the statesman, Winston Churchill, declined to say anything about the reported romance of his sister, Sarah, and Vic Oliver, American-Viennese comedian.

The Churchill family was disturbed by Sarah's sudden departure to meet Oliver here and Randolph came over on the next boat. But now, he pointed out, his sister is staying with him while Oliver is off on a vaudeville tour.

Prefacing the interview with the statement that his views coincided with those of his father, young Churchill said "we need an ally in the Pacific and it should be the United States."

"MIND OWN BUSINESS" HELD ONLY PEACE PATH

GENEVA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Two youthful foreign ministers warned the League of Nations today the only way to preserve peace in Europe is for each nation to mind its own business.

Although they represented opposite extremes in political color, both exhorted the assembled statesmen to remember the nations must view the political regimes of their neighbors with toleration and must keep "hands off" one another's internal affairs.

One of the speakers was dapper Anthony Eden, Great Britain's foreign secretary, a conservative. The other was Socialist Julio Alvarez Del Vayo, of Spain, just as much a fashion plate.

Eden cautiously advanced revision of treaties as a possible remedy for international grievances.

GEORGIA AREAS PUSH RURAL POWER LINES

Plans Made To Rush Projects in Waynesboro and Colquitt County.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Plans for the rural electrification of nearly 50 miles of territory in Burke, Jenkins and Screven counties, from Waynesboro southward to Rocky Ford, and of 15 miles from Waynesboro to Shell Bluff, on the east, took definite shape today with the presence here of J. E. Bacon, a Rural Electrification Administration official.

Bacon came here to make a complete survey and to assist in straightening out details which the approximately 200 families have expressed hope will assure early construction of the lines.

A co-operative organization known as the New Deal Power Company has been formed with Porter W. Carswell, of Burke county, president; F. M. Cates, agriculturalist, vice president; Roger W. Hopper, of Munnerlyn, W. C. Perkins, of Perkins, and William R. Enecks, of Rocky Ford, directors, and Joseph Law, Waynesboro, attorney.

"The federal government," Bacon explained, "is not out to build for just one man, but is endeavoring through the REA to help the masses of farmers now without electric current. The government will put lights in for farmers where it is economical to do so if the farmers co-operate.

"As for the government's part," he said, "it serves merely as a medium and is willing to lend money to the co-operative group to do the work."

Bacon said his economic survey of the territory revealed that most of the farmers owned their plantations and had incomes sufficient to insure a comfortable livelihood. He predicted a better type of farm help would result in the electrification of the rural areas.

COLQUITT COUNTY LINE IS ASSURED

MOULTRIE, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Electrification of Colquitt county's rural districts was assured today with the adoption of a resolution by the Moultrie Chamber of Commerce to assume part responsibility with the Colquitt board of county commissioners in rushing the project to completion.

A loan of $275,000 for erection of approximately 270 miles of power lines in the county has been approved by the Rural Electrification Administration at Washington.

The "new industries" committee of the Chamber of Commerce will work hand-in-hand with the commissioners in securing rights-of-way and signing potential customers.

RADIO HEAD DENIES TOWNSEND CLAIM

WENR Manager Says Rejection Made Due to NBC Policies.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Dr. Francis E. Townsend's claim that he had been prevented from expressing his political views over the radio brought a prompt denial today from the management of Station WENR.

The old-age pension plan leader announced he had cancelled four broadcasts because station officials had ordered him to omit political comment, "particularly all references to the President," and that after he had made the deletions in the manuscript of a talk scheduled for tonight, it was rejected "because they said it was based largely on the solicitation of funds."

"In order to get my message before the American people," he said, "I'll go to Mexico, if necessary, where two radio stations, ZEMP and ZELO (at Piedras Negras) can cover the entire United States for a broadcast.

From P. G. Parker, assistant to the vice president of the National Broadcasting Company and manager of WENR, came a statement saying the Townsend speech was rejected because NBC policy prohibits solicitation of funds over its facilities by organizations other than the American Red Cross, the Salvation Army or local community chests.

It said NBC was willing to allow Dr. Townsend to speak over its stations, "providing the speech conforms to the policies which the National Broadcasting Company applies uniformly to all persons and organizations."

FARLEY DESCRIBES CHARGE "RIDICULOUS.'

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Democratic Chairman James A. Farley tonight described as "ridiculous" a charge made by Dr. Francis E. Townsend in Chicago that a radio station refused to sell him time on the air because of opposition "from Democratic headquarters."

"That charge is absolutely ridiculous," Farley said. "We haven't tried to keep anybody off the air."

Burt, superintendent of Piedmont hospital; Dr. L. C. Fischer, head of Crawford W. Long hospital; J. B. Franklin, superintendent of Grady, and W. D. Baxter, director of Georgia Baptist.

BLAKELY, Ga., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Governor Talmadge has appointed James W. Bonner judge of the city court of Blakely to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge R. Howard Sheffield.

Bonner was nominated for the office in the recent primary, defeating two other candidates. However, his term would not have begun until next January 1, except for Judge Sheffield's death, and the appointment by the Governor.

HOME-COMING SERVICE PLANNED AT NEW HOPE

GAINESVILLE, Ga., Sept. 25.—Hundreds of north Georgia citizens are expected to gather at New Hope church, about nine miles from here, in Forsyth county, next Sunday to attend the annual home-coming service and singing.

This occasion will have an added feature this year as plans are being arranged to have a special song service in memory of Egbert Owen, who lost his life in the Gainesville tornado. This memorial hour will probably become a permanent part of the annual program as a tribute to this service in promoting this annual occasion.

The public is cordially invited.

ROOSEVELT CONSIDERS CROSS-COUNTRY SWING

President Will Remain Within Easy Reach of Washington.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 25.—(AP) Focusing further attention on plans for his October re-election maneuvers, President Roosevelt tonight still was considering a cross-country swing to the coast.

He said, however, his first political offensive in the west would carry him no further than Denver under present tentative arrangements. Only if conditions permit at the time, he said, will the stumping tour be continued to coast states.

He repeated that for one primary reason he did not wish any of the trips to take him too far from Washington and any of them would be subject to cancellation on three minutes' notice.

Mr. Roosevelt did not name the reason, but associates pointed to the foreign situation was so disturbed.

Dates Not Determined.

Dates and places for political appearances after October 2 have not been determined, the President said, adding he expected to make an announcement in Washington next Wednesday.

Leading Democratic strategists said a speech would be made at Omaha, in addition to one at Denver.

Another engagement has been arranged—a nonpolitical one, Mr. Roosevelt said—at a Franco-American celebration of the 50th anniversary of the dedication of the Statue of Liberty in New York harbor.

It is on the books for October 28, three days before the chief executive winds up his drive for another four years in the White House with an address in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Earlier in the day, the President completed an itinerary for a trip next week that will pack into four days six speeches and four appearances on the rear platform of his special train.

To Speak at Syracuse.

He will start off with an informal address in Syracuse, N. Y., Tuesday at the laying of a cornerstone for Syracuse University's new medical college, then speak in the evening before the New York state Democratic convention there.

After conferences the following day in Washington on formation of a public-private southeastern power pool on the Peru-Ecuador boundary dispute, and, with the new Maritime Commission, on the Pacific coast long shoreman's situation, Mr. Roosevelt will move on Thursday to Elkins, W. Va.

There he will view the coronation of the queen of the Mountain State Forest Festival around noon and make afternoon platform appearances at Grafton, Fairmont and Morgantown, W. Va., and Connellsville, Pa., en route to Pittsburgh, where he will speak that same night.

Marvin H. McIntyre, presidential secretary, today sent a telegram to Alfred E. Smith expressing Mr. Roosevelt's thanks for Smith's decision to defer a radio speech of his own until after the President's Pittsburgh address.

Next Friday he will dedicate a medical center in Jersey City, N. J.; attend a World Series ball game in New York, speak again at ground-breaking for the Queens-Midtown tunnel at Long Island City, N. Y.; then drive back to Hyde Park.

BROOKLYN PAIR HURT NEAR LAWRENCEVILLE

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Sept. 25. Mr. and Mrs. James Kame, of Brooklyn, N. Y., received minor injuries and lost their automobile by fire today near here when Kame swerved into a concrete brigde to avoid colliding with another car.

Kame's nose was fractured and Mrs. Kame received cuts on her left knee. The automobile, about $100 in bills and practically all of Mrs. Kame's wearing apparel were lost in the fire which broke out after the accident.

The couple said they were en route to New Orleans. Kame is a shipping clerk in New York for an electric company.

BISHOP W. A. CANDLER TO SPEAK AT BETHANY

Dinner will be served on the ground at noon and during the afternoon Wells will speak and the annual Laymen's rally will be held. All former pastors of the church have been invited to attend the exercises.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN WILL HEAR EDUCATOR

William P. Jacobs, president of Presbyterian College, Clinton, S. C., will be the principal speaker at Presbeterian College day exercises tomorrow morning at the First Presbyterian church.

President Jacobs will speak on Christian education and its relation to Presbyterian College's new program. The theme of the new program is "education in the fundamentals of knowledge rather than over-specialization" and has provoked controversy nationally.

Mae West, Dempsey and Babe Ruth Missing From 'Who's Who' Roster

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(UP)—The new "Who's Who in America"—a roster of the nation's prominent people—came out tonight, and a quick check-up showed Babe Ruth, Clark Gable and Mae West missed the boat.

If you take sheer space as the criterion, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, seems to be the most prominent person in the country. He has 101 lines in the fat, red book, but, of course, he slips in a lot of space fillers like associazione internationale per gli studi Mediterranei, Rome 1930," and "Hon. Mem. Worshipful Co. of stationers and newspaper makers of London."

President Roosevelt has only 36 lines and Governor Alf M. Landon has 17. The Republican presidential candidate is topped by the following entry:

"Temple, Shirley. Motion picture actress, B. Santa Monica, Cal., April 23, 1929," and so on for 18 lines.

Jack Dempsey, the former heavyweight champion, is missing, but there is listed a John J. Dempsey who turns out to be a congressman. Gene Tunney failed to get in, either as a prize fighter or a student of Shakespeare. Mickey Cochrane, manager of the Detroit Tigers, is absent, but "Who's Who" proves it has no prejudice against sports figures by including both Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs.

There probably will be trouble when Rudy Vallee, whose name is missing, runs across the item reading: "Crosby (Harry Lillis) Bing, actor."

Jimmy Walker gets one line, which says "former mayor." Eddie Cantor is in and so is Rubinoff and his violin.

Among those who are making their debut in the present valume are Governor Louis J. Brann, of Maine; Joe Benton, of Oklahoma, who is known as Guiseppe Bentonelli around the Metropolitan opera house where he wowed the customers last year as a pinchhitter; Nelson Eddy of the talkies; Albert Einstein, the man with the theory; Ford C. Frick, president of the National league; Senator Rose McConnell Long, widow of Huey P. Long; Paul A. Siple, the Boy Scout who went to the pole with Byrd; Janet Gaynor of the movies, and Senator Rush D. Holt.

Greta Garbo got under the wire (address, Culver City, Cal.) and so did Miss Joan Crawford.

One of the reasons James Carson Needham, of Modesto, Cal., is in "Who's Who" is that he is president of the Covered Wagon Baby Club. That is an organization made up of persons who were born in covered wagons before the Union Pacific railroad was built. There are 100 members.

ATLANTA THEATER NEWS

'Here's To Romance,' Rialto Musical Gem

Nino couldn't be bought. And thereon hangs a plot.

"Here's to Romance" brought joy to the hearts of music-loving Atlanta yesterday as it opened a week's run at the Rialto theater.

This delightful little toast to romance combines a splendid cast of outstanding radio, opera, dance, stage and screen stars.

Just a few of them—Nino Martini, Anita Louise, Genevieve Tobin, Madame Schumann-Heink, Marie Gambarelli, Vincente Escudero, Reginald Denny and others.

It is the magnificent voice of the great Martini and the brief scenes where that grand old lady of opera, Madame Schumann-Heink, sings that really make the picture worth while. Not often does Hollywood offer a picture that can please a wider audience range than can "Here's to Romance." There is enough lightness and modernness to make the gay crowd enjoy it, and the singing of the stars hold the more serious-minded.

To top off the show, there is the excellent ballet and dancing of Gambarelli and Vincente Escudero.

"Here's to Romance" is not a show that one would see for acting ability but it is a great screen opera. And laughs abound galore for those who enjoy a good chuckle. The scene where Martini sings the "hotcha" song for the "hotcha" babe in the five-and-ten-cent store will make anyone laugh.

The picture is fresh, fast, light, appealing and yet has enough dignity and grace to still please those who want to hear opera. —L. R.

Splendid Bill Booked At Burlesque Theater

One of yesterday's most famous comedians came back to Atlanta yesterday—just as funny as ever. He's here to stay a week at the Atlanta theater where he is the featured funman of the current burlesque—"French Follies."

Lou Powers, for that's his name, first attracted attention in Atlanta theater circles when he played here in Ziegfeld's sensational "Sally" several years ago.

Another old favorite of Atlanta burlesque audiences is back with this same company after a two years' absence. She is Hazel Bernard, the most attractive actress in the cast, even if she is not headlined.

Most unusual of the skits on the current bill at the Atlanta theater is the dance team of Curley and Doris Mack. They do several tap dances together that add considerably to the show and Doris does a solo "Coming 'Round the Mountain Dance" that is tops as for comedy.

June Rhodes is the featured actress of "French Follies." Very talented, she received round after round of applause at last night's opening and should prove one of the season's best attractions here by the end of next week.

The singing of Bert Wrennick thrilled the women in the audience and he makes a success of the straight man's job that is his.

When one considers the fact that the troupe arrived in Atlanta by bus from Cincinnati just an hour before the curtain went up, he is inclined to think that this week's show is good, indeed. —A. R.

2 BEER SELLERS FACE LICENSE REVOCATION

Revocation of the permits of two establishments to sell wine and beer will be recommended at the next meeting of city council as a result of a meeting of the public safety committee last night.

Following protest of patrons and operators of the library near the Wrens Nest, Joel Chandler Harris' shrine in West End, the committee decided to ask council to revoke the permit for the place operated at 621 Peeples street. A group of protesting negro residents of Ashby street obtained a recommendation that the permit of John L. Atkinson, 11 Ashby street, also be revoked.

Scheduled addition of several men to the department will await a special called meeting of the committee some time next week, it was learned.

AYLESWORTH RESIGNS FROM BOARD OF NBC

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—M. H. Aylesworth, former president of the National Broadcasting Company, today announced his resignation as vice chairman and member of the board of directors of the company.

He was severing his connections with the organization, he said, because the approaching reorganization of Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation, of which he is chairman, "now calls for my entire time."

RED CROSS MEETING SET.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 25. (AP)—Miss Anna Tobin Sugg, local secretary, said today 20 chapters of western Kentucky will be represented at the regional Red Cross session here Tuesday. Among the speakers will be Everett Dix, eastern assistant Cross manager; Miss Ruth Riley, field representative; Charles Carr, Washington, and Mrs. Ethel Manson, Washington.

LUTHERANS TO MEET.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The Rev. Leslie F. Frerking, of Charlotte, said today the southeastern pastoral conference of the Lutheran church would be held here October 6 and 7. He said pastors and professors from the Carolinas and Georgia would discuss mission expansion in the southeast.

'Stage Struck' Is Hit Now at Fox Theater

A riot was staged during the entire afternoon and evening yesterday at the Fox theater. It was a riot of comedy, laughs, wise-cracks and splendid dancing and singing and went under the name of "Stage Struck" as it opened a week's run at the Fox.

Heading an all-star cast were Dick Powell and Joan Blondell, who have trod the middle aisle together since the picture was made; Warren Willian, Frank McHugh, Jeanne Madden and the four Yacht Club Boys. With that lineup carrying the heavy roles in comedy, dance and syncopation, the picture gets off to a whirling start and persists in whirling beautifully the whole way through to its last big laugh.

Dick Powell plays the part of New York's best known dance director and he and his new mustache have a lot of ups and downs before he takes a lucky swing at the pet hate of the stage cast and forces a happy ending. Warren William is the producer and he has his worries, which drive him to the desperate point of demanding a doctor or a leading lady. He gets both.

Joan Blondell is the rich girl with a yen to play the star role in the production and she succeeds in getting in Dick Powell's hair so that he comes very near tossing the entire show in the alley before it is over. How the young groom succeeds in hating his new off-stage bride in this picture.

Jeanne Madden, a rising young star with promising singing and dancing accomplishments, is the chorus nonenity who comes through to save the show and save Mr. Powell for herself.

Good short subjects, including a particularly interesting feature showing recent scientific developments in a popularized manner, complete a thorough enjoyable bill of entertainment. C. F. C.

Drama at Paramount New Kay Francis Hit

Powerful drama of the richest sort was found by an appreciative audience yesterday when the Paramount theater presented "Give Me Your Heart" for a week's run, with Kay Francis rising to greater heights than ever before as a dramatic actress.

The story is based on the great stage hit, "Sweet Aloes," and has lost nothing in Cosmopolitan's cleverly handled screen portrayal. Good taste and skillful handling make the daring and frank story of extremely modern life and its vagaries easy to digest even for the most prudish.

With a cast including George Brent, Roland Young, Patrick Knowles, Henry Stephenson and other popular players, Kay Francis is ably supported in one of her greatest starring vehicles.

She plays the pathetic role of a mother torn between the love of her child and the desire to be with the man she loves. A romance springs up between this young English girl and a nobleman with a semi-invalid wife. Their romance is tragically beautiful, but comes to an end when her lover's father, who desires an heir which his son's wife cannot give him, takes the child and the heart-broken mother sails for America to try to forget her love and her baby.

She tries a mad whirl in fast society as a means of forgetting, but only succeeds in bringing her nerves to the breaking point. As an escape, she marries a substantial business-man, whom she admires but does not love.

A dramatic climax is built up when the young nobleman, his wife and the son visit America and are brought face to face with the American and his wife, who is a fugitive from her past life. So intense is the situation for all concerned that anything might be expected, but the nobleman's wife bursts through with a generous gesture which brushes away the ominous clouds.

An entertaining series of short subjects balances the feature picture to form a thoroughly entertaining bill for the week. —R. M. N.

4 BANDITS DEFIED BY DEPUTY'S WIFE

Woman's Bravery Brings About Arrest of Would-be Robbers.

WARSAW, Ky., Sept. 25.—(AP)—The wife of a Tennessee deputy sheriff defied four youthful robbers who held up her husband today and caused their capture soon after they had fled.

Judge J. W. Connley told the story of the woman's bravery.

The deputy, B. D. Hagewood, was driving with his wife and mother.

Five miles east of Warsaw one of the robbers pointed a pistol against the car window and ordered Hagewood to step out.

As the deputy did so, Mrs. Hagewood produced a pistol and covered the would-be robbers.

All four started to run. Hagewood snatched the weapon from his wife and fired at one youth, who stopped and was arrested. He gave his name as Hubert Morin, a radio repairman of Detroit. Hagewood brought Morin to police headquarters, where he reported the incident to Kentucky state police, who arrested three youths who gave their names as Gordon Caple, 18; Paul Cullum, 16, and Johnny McBridge, 18.

The quartet was taken to Newport, Ky., where they were held in $10,000 bond on charges of armed robbery.

GOVERNOR MOVES TO PUNISH POLICE

Earle Orders Quick Action in Death of Prisoner in Pennsylvania.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Sept. 25.—(AP) Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti hurried to Uniontown today with instructions from Governor George H. Earle to prosecute "everyone culpable" in what Earle described as "the horrible and brutal" death of Frank C. Monaghan, 64-year-old hotelkeeper.

Margiotti, appointed special prosecutor in the case at his own request, flew to Pittsburgh and planned to go to Uniontown later for a conference with Fayette county judges.

The attorney general said he will ask the grand jury to reconvene next week, possibly Monday, to consider murder charges against the three officers accused of fatally beating Monaghan while he was being questioned in the stabbing of John C. Wall, chief county detective.

Earle said Monaghan's death "was the most horrible, brutal and barbarous occurrence" in Pennsylvania, after receiving a report of Margiotti's investigation this week.

"He was brutally beaten to death while in a drunken condition," Earle said. "Had they got a confession it would not have been legal because of Monaghan's condition."

SOVIETS FEAR ENEMIES TO DROP TALK FOR GUN

MOSCOW, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Klementi E. Voroshiloff, war commissar, said today that Soviet Russia "is ready to meet the enemy anywhere he chooses to taste the force of our arms."

"Our enemies," he asserted, "are unceasingly preparing for war. They declare most clearly who is the object of their barbarous intentions. The Soviet Union is the cataract on the eye of a capitalistic world."

At any moment, he said, "oral calumnies and attacks may be converted into an armed assault."

Declaring that the Soviet army is the only one in the world exclusively designed for defense, and not for invasion, Voroshiloff said "for that purpose we are ready with manpower, equipment, training and resources."

TEN STATES DISPUTE HIGH COURT DECISION

Reconsideration of Bankruptcy Act Ruling Asked by Attorneys General.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—A supreme court ruling that the 1934 municipal bankruptcy act was unconstitutional because it violated states' rights was disputed today by 10 states seeking a reversal of that decision.

In a brief filed with the high tribunal, they asked it to reconsider the five-to-four decision last May 25. The petition was signed by the attorneys general of Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Mississippi, Missouri, New Mexico, Oregon, Texas and Washington.

Rehearings seldom are granted. The court will announce its action on October 12.

Explaining that the legislation provides for a voluntary readjustment of indebtedness through federal bankruptcy courts, the petition asserted that the "exercise of the express power to pass laws on the subject of bankruptcies is essential for the protection of the states."

"It remained for the great depression," the petition added, "to strew in its wake the wreck of a billion to two billions of dollars of municipal securities in all parts of the country and throughout all sections of the sovereign states."

Arkansas also filed a separate brief contending its improvement districts "are not arms of the state, but are agencies of the taxpayers" and hence the legislation "does not violate the constitution."

The court's ruling involved obligations of the Cameron county, Texas, water improvement District No. 1. The district already has asked for a rehearing.

In its decision, delivered by Justice McReynolds, the court said:

"If obligations of states or their political subdivisions may be subjected to the interference here attempted, they are no longer free to manage their own affairs; the will of congress prevails over them . . . and really the sovereignty of the states, so often declared necessary to the federal system, does not exist."

3 PUPS WEIGH 14 OUNCES.

ATLANTA, GA., SEPT. 26, 1936.

CO-OPERATIVE EFFORT

A move that will result in a gradual uplift to southern industry was started Wednesday at a meeting in Atlanta of representatives of various commercial and manufacturing industries of the south with representatives of southern carriers, at which it was agreed that the interests of shippers and the railroads were so interwoven that the development of both depended upon close co-operation.

Leading industrialists and representatives of the railroad carriers pledged themselves to mutual, wholehearted support of efforts designed to further the cause of southern industry and the transportation systems of the south.

Another development of the meeting was that southern industrialists, who have been fighting discriminatory rail rates for years, were assured of support in their contention that rates from the south to the north should be on the same level as within the north.

The co-operative effort pledged at this meeting will go far toward removing some of the chief obstacles in the rapid development of southern industry. There is ample low-priced power in many sections of the south and a wealth of raw materials that may be manufactured into articles of commerce and trade, thus adding wealth to the section and providing employment for thousands of persons.

Discriminatory freight rates and lack of co-operation of carriers have acted to discourage capital from locating in this section, and the southeast has been penalized to favor the established industries of the north and east.

THE SIMPSON CASE

Secretary Hull's vigorous denial of the charge that the State Department has been lax in its attention to the case of Lawrence B. Simpson, American sailor arrested by Nazi police, and his spirited rebuke of those he holds have acted in "bad faith" in circulating "misleading propaganda," will satisfy the great majority of the people of the country that there has been no neglect of this American citizen who has become involved with the laws of another nation.

No man in the United States would be quicker or more determined in his defense of an American unjustly treated in a foreign nation than the aggressive Tennessee statesman whose direction of the State Department has been an outstanding feature of the Roosevelt administration. It would be contradictory to the nature of such a man to permit any such development to go unrebuked.

It must be borne in mind that incidents involving individual citizens of a nation in trouble in foreign countries can easily bring strained relations if they are not handled diplomatically and in strict accord with the facts of the case.

Certainly no American would like to see a fellow citizen incarcerated in another country, but just as surely there would be, and rightly so, strong condemnation of an administration which through hasty conclusions and acts, involved the nation itself in an unnecessary controversy.

Because the State Department has not revealed in detail the steps it has taken to assist this American sailor, detected, it is alleged, with Communistic propaganda, the National Committee for the Defense of Political Prisoners has become greatly exercised. There seems to be no reason for the existence of such an organization in America, if its name correctly implies its purposes, and it is unfortunate that it should have sought to gain its end by creating a public sensation through its attack in the newspapers of America on the very eve of the trial of the incarcerated American sailor in the courts of Germany.

There is no reason to believe that the German authorities would seek to punish unjustly an American citizen, and there is less reason to believe that the State Department would have failed to bring about his release had he not been guilty of some offense against the laws of the country in which he was at the time of his arrest.

Should it appear that Simpson is not given a fair and impartial trial, the American State Department can be depended upon to act swiftly and efficiently.

FAR EAST FLARES AGAIN

The current renewal of threatening conditions between Japan and China is, as are most of the flare-ups of the far east, capable of two interpretations.

It may be just another one of the minor incidents that are constantly occurring between oriental countries, and it may soon be adjudicated through the difficult-to-understand manipulations of eastern diplomacy, where the chief objective to be attained is to save the "face" of all concerned. It is earnestly to be hoped that this will prove the case, since serious trouble between China and Japan at a time when the rest of the world is so beset with troubles would be certain to have far-reaching repercussions.

On the other hand, there are many aspects of the present clash that make it more serious than those that have occurred recently around Tientsin, Pekin and the Mongolian boundary. Several thousand Japanese soldiers and marines are now patrolling the streets of a large portion of the International Settlement of Shanghai, and the famous nineteenth route army which fought the Japanese so bitterly only a few years ago on the same area is only a comparatively few miles away.

To aggravate the situation, the recent governmental adjustments in China, by which the Nanking government has finally secured control of the group which practically had its own way in Canton for so many years, have brought a new awakening of the national spirit among the Chinese, especially those in the thickly populated provinces adjacent to the scene of the latest brush with Japan.

This means that unless the Chinese officials have greater control over the populace than they have wielded before, that other attacks on Japanese nationals may come at any time—and Japan has plainly warned that such attacks will mean stringent steps by her army and navy to assure safety for her citizens living in China.

The interests of the European powers, and, to a large extent, of the United States, in China are centered in Shanghai. The heart of the city is ruled by a commission made up of foreign residents, and it is policed by citizens of other nations.

Should Japan attempt to seize Shanghai and occupy the territory around the city, which is the sixth largest metropolis in the world, it is certain that immediate protests will come from Great Britain, France and other European powers, and possibly the United States.

It may be that Japan's militarists, aware of the fact that Europe is busy with its own troubles, have seized upon the shooting of the three Japanese marines on the streets of Shanghai to gain a foothold in Southern China, similar to that they have in the area around Pekin. If this is the case, then the world is faced with the prospect of developments of a widely disturbing nature.

Haile Selassie showed up for the racing at Bath, England, in a derby hat. They'll make a vegetarian of the conquering lion yet.

When there comes a lull in the campaign shouting, we never know whether to score the silence for John Garner or Mrs. Landon.

"See Naples and die" is all right, but you get faster service in Spain.

Jesse Owens has some of what it takes in politics, including the heart and the wind, but has he tried running with an ear to the ground?

General Franco, who tells his exuberant Spanish Rebels that motor cars don't grow on bushes, has just never been around here on a Labor Day afternoon.

The Columbian savant who thinks the sum of the parts is greater than the whole, is dead right. We, too, have tried to put olives back in the bottle.

Big Show At Nurnberg.

Germans and foreigns who troubled to go to Nurnberg to attend the annual congress of the Nazi party must have got an eyeful of the vast militarist preparations which have been under way in the Fatherland since Herr Hitler assumed power. A parade is a very impressive thing, but 500 parades must be a bother.

I can easily understand the feelings of the French reporter in Nurnberg, who wrote that the show was tedious. Nevertheless, the world was duly impressed. Germany is rising fast, not in learning or the advance of culture; Nazis have no use for such things. In fact, they burn books, but in the number of men under arms and the equipment for dealing out death en masse.

Next year the Germans will have exactly four times the number of men under arms France will have. But France is still superior in mechanized equipment, aviation and tanks. Even so, the French are speeding up the modernization of their forces. I hope war may be avoided by this armament race we witness at present in Europe. Armament races did not prevent war in the past. They brought them on quicker.

In the present state of affairs only an incident is needed to put the torch into the powder barrel. According to the Manchester Guardian, Dr. Goebbels did his utmost to find such an incident with his speech at Nurnberg. Whereas Herr Hitler "at least ascended to the plane of argument, Goebbels tossed it down again," says that paper.

Dr. Goebbels' speech makes the great English liberal paper "despair of a nation that can listen to such nonsense." Should war ever break out between Germany and Russia, the journal adds, the future historian who finds and reads Dr. Goebbels' speech will not need to look farther to discover on which side the war-guilt lay.

Turkey Looks to England For Help Toward Peace.

King Edward has met and conferred for several hours with Kemal Pasha, president of the Turkish republic. Who would have thought this possible even three years ago. Turkey has for years been the inveterate enemy of Britain not without good cause, let it be said in fairness.

But those days lie behind. The Ethiopian war has opened many eyes and Turkey as well as other Mediterranean powers, such as Greece and Yugoslavia, are looking toward England for a lead in remaking the Mediterranean a sea of commerce and peace. This is quite well possible, for Turkey, armed to the teeth, fears nobody, not even the Italian invasion, which used to be a scarecrow of the Turkish press in years gone by.

We are happy to learn, at least we ought to be, with the news from Thibet, Ghong-ghi, grand lama, or Dalai Lama, the living buddha, makes the announcement that there will be no war.

It is not clear whether this divinity of flesh and blood makes the pleasant prediction for Thibet alone, or for the whole world. But even so, if only Thibet is meant, so much is gained. There will be one place ot go to in a pinch to escape the rain of aerial torpedoes and poison gas which will inevitably be the accompaniment of any armed conflict of the future.

In Thibet grow the most beautiful roses in the world, it is said. How is the Dalai Lama going to keep his country out of the universal upheaval? The answer is simple: He will pray. And if prayer is not enough, well, then, he makes the announcement at the same time that the arsenal of Llasa, the holy city, is well stocked.

The statement reminds somehow of Paul Kruger, of South Africa: "Let the English come. Let them bring their guns. We have guns too."

He did have guns, two to be exact.

Good Morning

BY LOUIE D. NEWTON.

TOKENS OF AUTUMN.

If you want to see something surpassingly beautiful, take a little journey into the hill country and look at the mellowing tones of the first autumn leaves. The sourwood, dogwood, maple and hickory trees are already glorious in their coloring. Even here in our city lanes one may glimpse wonderful pictures of autumn's silent approach. I have noticed showers of falling leaves, beautiful pageantry of nature. They are giving their eloquent testimony of that eternal truth:

"Leaves have their time to fall,
And flowers wither at the north wind's breath."

Passing along the road through a north Georgia mountain valley the other day, I stopped the car to enjoy a marvelous vista of autumn coloring along the mountainside, the harvest field in the foreground, the blue sky above, and I thought of that exquisite couplet of Whittier's:

"The still, small voice in autumn's hush,
Yon maple wood—the burning bush."

Which always prompts one to go on and dwell again upon Mrs. Browning's immortal statement:

"Earth's crammed with heaven,
And every common bush afire with God:
And only he who sees takes off his shoes."

Because of the extended drouth conditions, we shall likely see an early, autumn effect. The moisture in the stems is at low ebb and they will shrivel earlier than usual. The cool winds in the nighttime and the final chemical reactions will be revealed now every passing day. May our hearts be attentive to this manifestation of nature. May we have eyes to see—hearts to feel—souls sensitively responsive to the handiwork of God.

"The earth is the Lord's, and the fullness thereof. Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge. There is no speech nor language where their voice is not heard. Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my Redeemer."

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

BY PAUL MALLON.

LOST ACE WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt has not yet begun to play some of the high cards in his campaign sleeve. He is not advertising them, even to all his political intimates. Some who have seen him with his coat off lately, however, have had a swift glance at an ace they did not suspect was in the deck. You may not believe it either when you see it played some time before election. Incredible as it sounds, it is a balanced budget for next year.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau has said there would be no news on the budget before November 3, but he may not have known, or cared to discuss, what is going on now in budget-making. Acting Budget Director Bell has made no announcements, but he has been working for some months on estimates. There are good reasons for believing that he can now produce figures indicating an approximate balance, based as much on expectations of increasing revenue as upon a decrease in expenditures.

His work has progressed so far that one of the leading bond market advisory services sent to its banker clients a few days ago the confidential suggestion that "a balanced 1938 budget is a reasonable expectation."

ESTIMATING The budget figures relate to such far distant economic conditions that they are difficult for the government actuaries to calculate, but there is nothing to stop them from taking an optimistic view. It is almost impossible to guess accurately the extent to which better business will boost tax receipts for the year beginning next July 1, now nine months off. It is equally difficult to calculate relief demands. But the law requires a budget to be submitted to congress in January, and it will be possible for the President to offer rather definite guesses before November 3 if he chooses.

Some unofficial experts used a pencil on the problem the other day and came out with only a $300,000,000 deficit for 1938 by cutting relief one-third, increasing revenues 12 per cent, deducting the bonus expenditure of the current year and neglecting to consider the probable heavy requirements of social security. Beyond these considerations is the broad field of recoverable government assets, which have been used this year to help in cutting the deficit in half, without decreasing spending.

Thus, it can be done, and it probably will be.

GAMBLE The criticism most frequently made of the New Deal by New Dealers is that Mr. Roosevelt allows his associates to make rash and reckless statements which pop into their extensive crania.

As Mr. Roosevelt is so liberal with his help, probably no action will be taken against Comptroller of the Currency O'Connor for his last great gamble with fate. Mr. O'Connor made the statement that, if no banks failed within the ensuing two weeks, he would take the air on a national hookup September 30 and announce that the first year of American history had passed without a bank failure.

The reckless chance which Mr. O'Connor took may be gauged accurately by a fact he failed to mention, namely, that he is the only man who can close the banks. While he could hardly be expected to ruin his own record in the last two weeks of September, you must consider the hazard that he might die and Mr. Roosevelt might appoint another comptroller who would close a bank. That is the only way it could happen.

If Mr. O'Connor keeps his health three more days, and makes his broadcast, you may expect some heckler to ask how many weak banks he is carrying in his pocket, or how many should have been closed which still remain open.

HONORABLE MENTIONS Some people who know Professor Tugwell have mentioned in private that Agriculture Secretary Wallace may eventually become president of the University of Wisconsin. Newsmen thought they had something in that idea, until they approached people who know Wallace. His friends said they were fairly sure Wallace would not leave his government job, but that they had heard the story mentioned in respect to Tugwell.

There is, therefore, no good reason why anyone should mention either suggestion.

Wallace is anchored in agriculture, and what seems to be in the wind for Tugwell is control of the new farm tenant bill, in which Mr. Roosevelt took such interest recently. It will give him something to do in place of his Resettlement Administration, which now needs only a night watchman.

SILHOUETTES

BY RALPH T. JONES.

New backfield stars are waiting,
New gridiron thrills a-borning,
We're on our way to Athens and Sanford Field this morning.

What D'yer Mean, Atlanta Boys?

Picking a bone with Ralph McGill and the sports department this morning. Did you see, in yesterday's paper, where they listed nine "Atlanta boys" on the University of Georgia football squad this year? And I know, positively, four out of those nine are Decatur boys. Maybe more, that I don't know.

Even including Decatur in the metropolitan area of Atlanta, practically fifty per cent is a sizeable contribution, don't you think? And, footballically speaking, it's no wonder the sports department want to include Decatur in Atlanta. And I have seen 'em state that Freddie Sington lives in Atlanta, but he doesn't. He lives in Decatur, too.

For the honor of Decatur, the older city of the two, give us justice, at least, boys.

Free Dose Of Medicine.

Clyde Wiley told me this incident. Seems he was in a restaurant the other supper hour and two of the waitresses were quarreling. Or at least, one was complaining about something the other had done. And Clyde overheard the conversation.

Seems the waitress with a grievance had to take medicine at certain times of the day. And the medicine she took was a white powder which had to be dissolved in a glass of water.

She had fixed her dose and left the glass standing, to give the powder time to dissolve, while she attended to the wants of a customer. While her back was turned the other waitress had picked up the glass, thinking it was simple, unmedicated water, and served it to a customer.

And now the first girl had to fix her dosage all over again and she resented the extra trouble.

There was no report on the results on the customer of the unwitting dose he imbibed.

One Fingernail Remains.

Remember the report in this column, a couple of months ago, of the girl in an Atlanta business establishment who had let her fingernails grow an inch and a half beyond her finger tips? And had then decorated them pink and red on one hand and red and pink on the other?

Now she has trimmed them all off except one, which she is keeping as a souvenir of her achievement.

Twelve Little Fingers, Twelve Little Toes.

Speaking of fingers, do you know there is a girl in Atlanta with six fingers on each hand? Or, if you will be meticulous, five fingers and a thumb. The extra digits are rudimentary, true, growing out of the inside edges of her hands, below the normal little fingers.

She says her mother had a similar oddity and attempted to have the extras removed surgically, with unfortunate results. So her physician has advised against any attempt to remove the girl's. She's a good looking young woman, too.

There is also a man in Atlanta with six toes to each foot. His extras grow below the little toes, on the outer side of each foot. He can't find shoes to fit and has to cut a hole in each shoe to let the sixth toe stick out in comfort.

You Never Know Who Knows Who.

Funny the unsuspected links through friendship in all our lives.

There is, for instance, a most likeable fellow who has, for a couple of years, been waiting upon us when we go to the stores for groceries every morning. Courteous, efficent and altogether pleasant in every contact.

The other day, while he was gathering from the shelves the various foods we had selected for the day, someway Athens was mentioned in conversation. He remarked that the Clarke county city was his home town.

Naturally, finding anyone who knew Athens, I asked if he knew W. T. Forbes, of the Athens Y. M. C. A., one of my best friends, anywhere.

"Why," he replied, "W. T. practically raised me. I've known him ever since I was old enough to walk to the "Y" building. Miss Annie Foster, his secretary, too. Those two grand people did more for me than any others in the world, outside my family."

So now we go a-shopping for groceries with greater pleasure than ever before.

Horns Silenced

—In Italian Cities—

Italy has successfully inaugurated a boon to mankind which other countries are attempting to duplicate, says an article in the September National Geographic Magazine. This is the complete cessation of blowing of motor horns within the limits of some Italian cities. For two years, as far as horns are concerned, these cities have been enveloped in a deathlike hush.

The Excelsior hotel in Naples is a familiar landmark situated on the corner of the large water-front boulevard faeing ever-smoking Vesuvius. Bedrooms have balconies from which can be seen ocean liners coming in to tie up at their piers, or passing out through the breakwater on their way to the four corners of the world; tireless Neapolitan fishermen dipping their nets close to shore for the seafood so popular in Italy; and the coast line curving out to Sorrento. A stream of motors was constantly passing and honking. This was well enough in the daytime, but it was destructive to a night's rest.

Now One Can Sleep.

Until two years ago the Italians, like the French, seemed unable to drive an automobile unless one hand was queezing the horn. Now one sleeps at the Excelsior as well as in the heart of the country. It is claimed that there are fewer accidents than formerly.

At first it is nerve-racking for a foreigner to drive under these conditions and visitors are not rebuked for gently tapping their horns.

There is a horrid fascination in watching noiseless motor traffic. A motor glides silently up behind several sauntering, absent-minded pedestrians. The pedestrians continue to saunter, the car slows up and is finally on their very heels. Not until they feel the warm breath of the engine on their necks do they glance around and step to one side.

It is a pleasure to walk in the Corso and in the other narrow streets in Rome, where nerves are no longer frazzled by the former bedlam and where conversation is now possible instead of being a pain in the throat.

FAIR ENOUGH

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Covered Only Half of Ground. NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The American Legion's annual resolution against Communist and alien ideas inimical to the American system of government is all right as far as it goes but it covers less than half the ground. Fascism, also, is an alien idea, inimical to the American freedom. But, notwithsanding the fact that two arrogant demonstrations of Fascism took place this season in the very hall where the Legion renewed its vows against alien ideas, the Legion did not mention Fascism by name and apparently did not even have Fascism in mind. This refers, of course, to the conventions of Doctor Townsend's old folks party and of Father Coughlin's union. Both of which, with bold contempt, introduced the principles of Mussolini and Hitler into deliberations held under the American flag and flouted the principles to which the American Legion gives devotion.

It is doubtful that the Legion contains any Communists but the membership probably includes many individuals who subscribe to the Townsend and Coughlin organization and bow to the domination of men who are incapable of leadership under the trying conditions imposed by the American system and therefore readily resort to the alien methods of the Duce and the Fuehrer.

Own Chief Insulted. The American Legion's resolution may be taken to condemn the alien salute of the upraised clenched first but its avoidance of that other alien idea bespeaks indifference to the Fascist salute which has been raised from time to time at meetings of the union. While they were resoluting, the Legionnaires might have shown Americanism by some word of regret, at least, for the insults to their own commander in chief, the President of the United States, by those Fascists who called him a liar and double-crosser and threatened to drive him out of the White House. If the leader of the Communist party had called their commander-in-chief a liar and a double-crosser and threatened to drive him out of the White House, the American Legion would have viewed that as a defiant challenge to the mighty wrath of patriots.

Numerically, the Communists are a negligible factor in this country and, although the organization is said to include secret members, Communists are easily identified because they talk their stuff. The Fascist, on the other hand, may not even know himself that he is a member of a Fascist organization because the organizations which are conducted on Fascist lines boast of their Americanism and make use of the same flag which the American Legion devoutly salutes.

Browder Barred From Speaking. Earl Browder, the Communist candidate for President, who is not really in the contest but just running to keep the franchise alive, recently was barred from speaking on Communism in both Atlanta and Tampa. But Huey Long, who had abolished free courts, organized a Louisiana gestapo, nullified the ballot and called out members of the American Legion and sons of Legionnaires to enforce with machine guns the decrees of an American Mussolini, was cordially received in Georgia and would have been equally welcome in Tampa. The alienism of Huey's method was just as dangerous to the American ideals so dear to the American Legion as the alienism of Earl Browder's politics for if the American liberties are to be abolished it doesn't make much difference who does it or whether he salutes with his hand clenched or open.

It is customary to dismiss such estimates of Huey's regime with the easy, evasive answer: "Lies, a pack of lies'" but they are not lies. The record stands on the books of Louisiana and nobody has ever had the gall to deny the record in detail or to defend it as consistent with the Americanism which the American Legion defends from a much less formidable foe.

Their Records Are on Books. Similarly, the Fascists and Nazis of Europe cry: "Lies 'a pack of lies'" but there, too, the record stands on the books and this is the concept of government boldly introduced in this country which the Legion, far from viewing with alarm, has not noticed at all. The answer then turned to statistics on paved roads, free bridges and trains which run on time, as though this country were unable to build roads and bridges and run trains punctually over vastly longer stretches and still preserve the character of the American government.

No doubt about it, Communism is inimical to the ideals of the American Legion, but Fascism is the greater menace because it employs all the devices and properties of patriotism and seduces patriots who do not realize what they have done until too late.

The American Legion ought to pause a minute and listen closely, above the silence of their meeting hall they will hear the crashing snarl of the Fascist, "Liar and double-crosser" and "drive him out of the White House." They might then wish to name Fascism along with Communism as an alien influence inimical to that democracy for which they fought.

Navy's Birthplace.

The schooner Hannah, which was to be credited with being the first ship of the United States navy, sailed out of Marblehead, Mass., in 1777 in command of Nicholas Broughton, an army officer, on the voyage on which it won its first victory over a British ship.

Marblehead's claim to be birthplace of the navy is, however, disputed by Beverly, Mass., which offers evidence that the Hannah made an earlier cruise from there.

The Hannah was a present to the government from Captain John Glover, fisherman, who himself joined Washington's army.

First Flight.

The first transcontinental flight began in 1911. It was to be completed 48 days later!

Calbraith T. Rodgers, of New York, made the trip in a flying machine provided by W. R. Hearst. In traveling the 4,321 miles between New York and Long Beach, Cal., he made 30 stops and was in the air actually 82 hours, 4 minutes.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

My Dear Louise:

When I sat down to write this letter, I intended to call your attention to another pitfall along the road you must travel and give you the usual parental warning.

But while I waited for words to make a beginning, a voice inside me murmured casually: "How often you have told her 'Don't' and how seldom you have said 'Attaboy!'"

And then, while it had the floor, it added in a tone none too friendly: "Suppose she devoted a few hours to a study of your weaknesses and faults! Would the result be flattering? Wouldn't your face change to a redder hue?"

And so, my dear, instead of giving advice today, I shall make confession.

Through ignorance and want of experience, and often in plain mulish meanness, I have many times proved unworthy of my trust.

I have refused you certain liberties, not because my wiser judgment saw reason to deny them, but only because my liver was in rebellion and I was out of humor.

I have discussed you with my intimate friends, as though you were a horse or a motor car, although I feel mistreated when you discuss me with your friends.

Being too anxious to have you perfect, I have spoiled many a happy moment and often stilled your laughter by correcting some trivial fault.

At times, and I confess it with shame, I have corrected you in public and thus needlessly humiliated you—a form of disloyalty that is the unpardonable sin.

I have interfered with your plans when it wasn't at all necessary, and merely because I objected to your doing anything without the consent of the boss.

I have been guilty of refusing to explain a command, as though I were an old-fashioned parent saying: "Don't ask why. I said do it, and that is reason enough."

I have never failed to criticize when I had an excuse, but how often I have failed to praise when you did well!

I have always required you to quit your affairs at my pleasure, but often I have been "too busy" when you paid me the compliment of desiring a little of my time.

I have used my authority to end a discussion when you were right and I wrong.

I have teased you about your embarrassing mistakes, though I would resent it if you teased me about mine.

In short, I have been the average parent, meaning well, but guilty of many sins against you, and I ask your forgiveness.

Love DAD.

INTERVIEW WITH RUTH CHATTERTON.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 25.—"Marriage is a boring institution. I shall never remarry," said Ruth Chatterton, demure, determined actress-aviatrix, to your correspondent during a chicken lunch in her Beverly Hills home.

The lady has experience as her guide. She has, in a manner of speaking, been married three times—to Ralph Forbes, now the husband of Heather Angel; to George Brent, whom she divorced two years ago; and to Sam Dodsworth in the soon-to-be released Goldwyn screen dramatization of the Sinclair Lewis novel. Her marital encounter with businessman Dodsworth proved the clinching argument in favor of her resolution of real-life celibacy.

"Imagine any woman being married to a Babbit of the Dodsworth type. He is crude, ignorant, smug. If he were actually my husband I'd walk out on him during the first five minutes."

"What do you want in a husband, of you don't like the genuine, kind qualities of Dodsworth?" the actress was asked.

"I don't want anything. I'm happier as a single woman," was the surprise answer.

"You know, I didn't want to play the role of Fran Dodsworth," Ruth reminded me. "She's such a selfish woman. It took Sam Goldwyn a year to persuade me to sign for the role. Of course, I'm glad now that I succumbed, as, from all reports, the picture is a big success.

"Mr. Goldwyn is now trying to persuade me to play the leading role in 'Stella Dallas,'" she continued. "I'm determined not to give in this time. I shall hide in Europe to escape his cajoling."

Miss Chatterton is at present writing a screen play based on a famous feminine historical figure.

"Until I can persuade a producer to buy the story I shall not appear in films. In the seven years I've been in pictures, I've reached the heights of film fame, and I've touched low bottom. I'm now resolved to accept only roles that I consider suitable for my talents."

Miss Chatterton is returning to the New York stage in January, playing the title role in Felix Saltern's "Louise Von Coburg," to be produced by her friend, Auriol Lee.

"I'd like to try my hand at directing," said the brunet star. "But it's difficult to make producers believe that a woman is capable of directing a picture. Most of them—directors and producers—aresuch ignorant fools. Apart from Sam Goldwyn, whom I consider the genius of the motion picture industry, and the late Irving Thalberg, Hollywood is barren of producers capable of making good films. If the legitimate stage were as crowded with as many incompetents, the theater would have died many, many years ago."

The subject nearest Miss Chatterton's heart is aviation. Last year, six amateur fliers entered the Ruth Chatterton air derby. This year, a field of 35 fliers fought for the $2,000 cash prize offered by the actress.

Miss Chatterton is currently seen in "Girls' Dormitory," featuring the new French sensation, Simone Simon. The veteran actress and Herbert Marshall receive star billing, but Mlle. Simon has been given the benefit of the publicity spotlight by Darryl Zanuck, to whom she is under contract.

"I don't mind," Ruth stated. "She's young; let her have her chance. I was much younger myself when I made good on the stage."

HEALTH TALKS

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

Correspondent says X-ray pictures show shadows at the roots of three molars. Her dentist says the three molars are "dead" teeth, and that they should be extracted, as shadows mean abscesses.

But the correspondent insists her teeth are not now and have never been in the least sensitive, and she enjoys excellent health. Therefore she is loth to give up good chewing surfaces for mechanical contrivances. Do I advise removing "dead" teeth regardless?

The dentists themselves are divided as to the course advisable when pulpless (otherwise called "dead") teeth are present in the mouth. On the one hand are many good dentists who hold that such teeth should not be permitted to remain in the jaw. On the other hand are many good dentists who hold that pulpless teeth are not "dead" teeth, and may serve the patient for many years without any risk to health. It seems to be a question of opinion.

Twenty years ago a good many luckless persons lost all their teeth by wholesale extraction, because some physician guessed the teeth might be the source of whatever general complaints the patients had. Now and then the guess proved correct and a remarkable cure or extraordinary improvement of the general condition followed extraction of the teeth, but in most instances no such happy result was observed. Indeed, many patients suffered more severely after removal of the teeth because their nutrition became further impaired through the weeks or months of "soft" diet. By the way, good dentists today fit plates immediately after extraction of teeth, and patients get more satisfaction from such plates than do patients who wait weeks or months after extraction to have plates or other dentures made. The plate put in the mouth and worn immediately after extraction of many teeth may require some refitting some weeks later to adapt it to the final form of the bone and gums, but this is comparatively simple.

If I had a pulpless tooth and good health and no enlargement or tenderness of lumphatic "kernels" or nodes in the vicinity of the tooth, I'd keep the tooth until—

I should not be greatly disturbed by a shadow in the X-ray film; not even if my dentist believed the shadow indicated abscess at the root of the tooth.

But if, knowing I had a pulpless tooth in my jaw, I developed any chronic or insidious disturbance of health or illness which might conceivably be due to focal infection, then I'd have the pulpless tooth removed. It might do no good whatever. But I think it would be a fair gamble.

The presence or absence of tender kernels or nodes under the edge of the jaw or on the side of the neck is a fair index of the presence of infection at the root, under an old filling, or in the vicinity of the tooth. If such tender swellings can be felt, it is well to remove the tooth, to drain or clean up the infection.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Mercury Oxide.

Is 1 per cent yellow mercury oxide ointment (ophthalmic ointment No. 19) safe to apply to the edges of the eyelids to make the eyelashes grow? . . . (O. R.)

Answer—No. It does not make eyelashes grow. That is a quack notion.

Hairs in Nostrils.

I have a terrible lot of hairs in my nose. They seem to be getting heavier and longer. What would you advise? . . . (G. B.)

Answer—Clip them with blunt scissors. Do not pull them out by the roots, for that sometimes causes serious infection.

YOM KIPPUR MARKED BY ATLANTA'S JEWRY

Traditional Kol Nidre Services Usher in Observance of Sacred Day.

With the traditional Kol Nidre rites at sundown yesterday, Atlanta's Jewry ushered in a 24-hour period of fasting and prayer in observance of Yom Kippur—the Day of Atonement—holiest and most sacred of all Jewish services.

Rabbi David Marx, of the Jewish Temple, told his congregation last night that Yom Kippur "stands for the idea that man possesses the power within himself to set himself right."

Called to Atone.

At the Ahavath Achim synagogue, Rabbi Harry Epstein called upon his congregation to atone their sins and to "set themselves right with their God."

Beginning at sunset believers of the Jewish creed entered a period of fasting and almost continuous worship. All morning and afternoon until sundown today they will hold services in traditional manner. According to the Jewish method of reckoning time, a day is from sunset to sunset.

Services will be held today at all the synagogues.

Schedule of Services.

At the Temple, Rabbi Marx announced services at 10 o'clock this morning, a memorial service at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon and the concluding service immediately following the memorial.

Rabbi Epstein announced the following services at the Ahavath Achim congregation and its branch: Opening at 7 o'clock, memorial service at 11 o'clock, and the Neilah service at 5 o'clock. Rabbi J. M. Brown will officiate at the branch synagogue.

Services will be held at 8 o'clock, 3:30 o'clock and 6:30 o'clock at the Or Shalom Spanish congregation, Rabbi Joseph Cohen said. Rabbi Tobias Geffen, of the Shearith Israel congregation, announced meetings at 7 o'clock, 11 o'clock and 5 o'clock.

The Anshe S'Fard congregation will hold observances at 7 o'clock, 11 o'clock and 4:30 o'clock.

SCIENTIST QUITS FRENCH CABINET

Daughter of Discoverers of Radium Said at "Outs" With Blum.

PARIS, Sept. 25—(AP)—Mme. Irene Joliot-Curie, daughter of the discoverers of radium and herself a scientist, resigned today as undersecretary of scientific research in the French cabinet.

Her resignation was ascribed to "technical differences with the government." She was one of three women in the cabinet of Premier Leon Blum, the first to admit women.

As ardent a socialist as she is a scientist, Mme. Joliot-Curie accepted the post because of her party affiliations and her conviction it would enable her to further her scientific work. She and her husband, Professor Frederick Joliot-Curie hoped to use the income in seeking an artificial substitute for radium.

The Joliot-Curies discovered a way to make atoms of inert elements radioactive by bombarding them with alpha rays projected in a tube by millions of volts of electricity and won the Nobel prize in 1935 for their discovery.

They are at work now with experiments seeking to make radioactive elements with strong enough rays to be used in medicine.

35,000 MORE FAMILIES ARE GIVEN DROUTH AID

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Reporting an increase in a week of nearly 35,000 farm families aided in the drouth area, the Resettlement Administration today announced it "will continue its drouth program through the winter, assisting through loans and grants those farm families whose feed and feed supplies have been destroyed by the drouth."

The report showed 136,533 farm families had been assisted up to September 19, compared with 102,000 aided to September 12.

Drouth expenditures were said to total $4,157,378, including subsistence grants of $1,854,326 to 122,587 families; 10,550 livestock loans aggregating $1,929,315; and 3,396 emergency crop production loans amounting to $373,737.

On the Air Today

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS—Ted Husing, Columbia's ace sports announcer, will celebrate his thirteenth anniversary on the air by broadcasting the Duke-Colgate football game at Durham, N. C., over WGST at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon.

Although the veteran commentator will introduce a new assistant, Jimmy Dolan, the "Husing system" will be much the same as that which he worked out for his first gridiron contest back in the dawn of broadcasting.

The Minnesota-Washington football game will also be broadcast by Columbia and heard over WGST at 4:45 o'clock this afternoon.

YOUR HIT PARADE—After five consecutive weeks as the nation's top-notch dance tune, "Did I Remember," continues to hold its position in the "Your Hit Parade and Sweepstakes" program, and will be featured by Harry Salters' orchestra to be heard over WGST at 9 o'clock tonight.

An unusual point in this week's program is that the first three hits remain in the same order as they did last week. "Until the Real Thing Comes Along" and "Star Fell Out of Heaven," also will be featured by Salter's orchestra during the broadcast.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OF THE AIR—Something rather different in the way of religious programs will be heard during the first broadcast of the "Sunday School of the Air" under the direction of M. H. Prather, to be heard over WATL at 4:15 o'clock this afternoon.

The program will open with the theme song, "Let Jesus Come Into Your Heart," and later Betty Lou McNeely will present a short story.

CONCERT HALL—Nicolai Berezowsky, violinist, and Frank Sheridan, concert pianist, will perform Grieg's third sonata in C minor during their program to be heard over WGST at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

SLEDD SAILS TO CLAIM RHODES SCHOLARSHIP

James Sledd, Emory University honor graduate and Rhodes scholarship winner, last night was bound for England on the S. S. LaFayette to attend Oxford University.

Sledd is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Andrew Sledd, of Emory University, where Dr. Sledd is professor of theology.

While studying at Oxford the next two years, Sledd will receive a yearly allowance of approximately $2,000 under the provisions set forth in the will of the late Cecil Rhodes. His success marked Sledd's second try for the scholarship.

PARK WILL BE SOUGHT TO MARK BATTLEFIELD

Historical Society To Discuss Plans at Meeting Tonight.

The Atlanta Historical Society will consider plans for a new national park on the battlefield of Peachtree creek at its meeting at 6:30 o'clock tonight at the Atlanta Woman's Club.

The committee in charge of securing a national park on the site will make a report of the progress of the enterprise at the meeting. Congressman Robert Ramspeck will sponsor a bill in congress to provide federal funds for the park and other Atlantans are co-operating with the society.

Jack J. Spalding, new president of the organization and member of its national park committee, will preside at the meeting. Other members of the committee include Walter G. Cooper, chairman; Walter McElreath, Harry Alexander, Robert Lee Avary, Reuben Arnold, Ivan Allen and Walter C. Hendrix.

According to plans of the committee, the Peachtree battlefield park would be connected by boulevards with Stone Mountain, the battlefields of Atlanta and Ezra church and the National Memorial park on Kennesaw mountain.

Mr. Cooper will address the meeting, giving a brief account of the part Georgians played in the Texas fight for independence.

4-H BOYS, GIRLS PLAN DAY'S REIGN AT FAIR

5,000 to 6,000 Members Expected To Join in Activities Oct. 7.

Six Georgia farm boys and girls will rule supreme at the Southeastern Fair on 4-H Club Day Wednesday, October 7. Mike Benton, president of the fair association, and G. V. Cunningham, state club leader, announced yesterday. The six youngsters are officers of the State 4-H Club Council.

The club boys and girls will conduct educational team demonstrations and exhibits throughout fair week, and from 5,000 to 6,000 club members are expected to take part in the activities, Cunningham said.

President Benton plans to virtually turn the management of the entire fair for that day over to 17-year-old Margaret Dempsey, Fdoyd county girl, who is president of the State 4-H Club Council. Furnished with a limousine and a chauffeur, she will patrol the fair grounds to see that everything clicks. For the day, checks are to be written by Harry Howe, Cobb county, while Pauline Pritchard, DeKalb county, and Cohen Davis, Haralson county, vice presidents, will assist. Cornelia Phillips, Treutlen county, will act as secretary of the fair, and Ruby Beckham, club reporter from Calhoun county, will have her hands full handing the newspaper reporters.

Scores of 4-8 Club boys and a few girls will enter their prize pigs and dairy and beef calves, and will compete for medals, cash prizes and other awards. Demonstration teams from 16 counties, each composed of two boys or two girls, will compete for four free trips to the national club congress in Chicago this fall.

With more than 54,000 club members last year, Georgia has more 4-H Club boys and girls than any other state in the Union, the United States Department of Agriculture announced some time ago.

BREAK O'DAY!

By Ralph McGill

GRANT FIELD, Sept. 26.—It is just a few minutes before Presbyterian's stockingless Blue Stockings line up for the kick-off against Georgia Tech in Grant Field's first night college game.

The barelegged Blue Stockings look rather small in comparison. And no doubt are.

The old theater habit held for the night game. It was evident the crowd would reach about 10,000, excellent for a night game. But most of them were determined to come after the curtain, which was just as invisible as the Blue Stockings' stockings, was raised.

The scene all the more theatrical because of the lights. The turf looks greener, sharper.

There is a little dismay about the ball. A white ball is to be used. It blends with the white sweaters of the Presbyterians. But the tan ball blends with the tan sweaters of the Techs. Mr. Alexander, ever the perfect host, agrees to the white ball, known to the trade as the ghost ball. Had there been a tough game in prospect, the argument might have gone far into the night.

Over back of the stadium a rooster, worried about the lights in the sky, takes no chances and announces the approaching dawn.

Presbyterian kicks off the ghost ball, inaugurating the 1936 season. Lawrence Hays gets it and hauls it back 29 yards. The Blue Stockings were playing with a team largely composed of substitutes.

THE SCOUTS GATHER.

Down in front of the press box sit the scouts.

Mr. Hek Clarke, coach of the Sewanee eleven, moans slightly as he makes his chicken tracks on his scout's pad.

"The size of the team," he moans, "the size of them, and the speed of them."

His mountain Tiger plays the Georgia Techs here one week from the morrow.

Porter Grant, once a star for Auburn and now an aide to Chet Wynne at Kentucky, worries about Kentucky in Cincinnati, where the Wildcats are playing Xavier.

"I am just looking tonight," he says. "I will be back to scout Tech in the Sewanee game."

VANDY MEANS BUSINESS.

And does Vanderbilt mean business?

They are taking no chances with the Techs this year. Present tonight is Dutch McIntosh, line coach, and "Iron Man" Wetzel, a star with the S. M. U. last year in the Rose Bowl and now assistant line coach at Vanderbilt for Ray Morrison.

This means they will have the old eagle eye on every football move the Techs make this year.

"Say," said Hek Clarke, "they mean business for everyone. Not many teams, if any, will beat Vanderbilt this year."

Which will be no comfort at all to the foes of the Commodores.

A SLOW START.

The Jackets started slowly. They work the ball down and experiment with their air game, letting the rushes go.

The Blue Stockings take the ball. Captain J. B. Jacobs kicks beautifully and the first quarter goes by scoreless.

Early in the second quarter a little black dog, full of dog biscuits and the spirit of fun, scampers across the field.

There is no possible connection unless it was a courier sent out by Mr. William Alexander. But anyhow, the Jackets begin to turn on the power and drive 70 yards to a touchdown.

The crowd cheers Sims more for kicking the point after.

GOPHERS MEET HUSKIES TODAY IN MAJOR GAME

Duke, L. S. U. Entertain Outstanding Intersectional Gridiron Foes

By Alan Gould.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—College football muscles into the late September sports argument tomorrow in a big way.

Instead of yielding most of the athletic platform to current debates on international polo, world series baseball and politics, the undergraduate pigskin chasers claim a substantial share of the floor with the best slate of games ever listed for this early stage of the campaign.

The so-called "breather" contest still abounds, particularly in the east, but it isn't what it used to be in the boom days, when the bigger universities could afford to rate their early season pace on the strength of November sellouts. The competition for cash customers nowadays has become as keen in the gridiron business as the race for touchdowns. For artistic as well as financial reasons it is more popular to move into the zone of "natural" or "interclass" rivalries, from the outset.

BIG DOINGS.

Thus tomorrow's football slate finds three of the championship teams of 1935 tackling or blocking intersectional opponents of outstanding calibre, while the conference races in two principal sectors, the south and the far west, get under way with little preliminary sparring.

Minnesota's galloping Gophers, co-champions of the Big Ten and claimants of national honors over a stretch of three unbeaten seasons, move against Washington's Huskies, rated by many coast critics as favorites to win the Pacific Coast conference title this season.

This marks the opening shot of a Minnesota campaign that involves no setups from start to finish.

Shifting quickly to the southern front we find the two conference titleholders, Duke and Louisiana State, entertaining formidable intersectional foes in games that should attract mid-season attendance as well as national interest.

Duke will be host to Colgate's Red Raiders in a match that figures to develop an unusually interesting preview of the football taught by two of the game's outstanding strategists, Wallace Wade and Andy Kerr.

ASK TAR HEELS.

The folks at North Carolina can tell Kerr and his Raiders how tough it is to try beating Duke in their own backyard in a game for which they are specially primed. For that reason, plus the fact Duke has developed first-class replacements for an attack built around the versatile "Ace" Parker, the southerners get the call in this corner.

Colgate may unfurl a few multiple laterals to complicate the situation, but it's questionable whether Kerr has experienced enough material at this stage of the season to make his tricky offense function effectively.

Louisiana State has a score to settle with Rice Institute and figures to do it, inasmuch as the Owls no longer have those touchdown twins, Bill Wallace and John McCauley. The Baton Rouge Tigers also are minus a couple of headliners, Abe Mickal and Jess Fatherree, but they are better fortified with replacements. Last year L. S. U. went on to lick all remaining opposition and win the southern conference title after a 10-7 setback from Rice. It should be a different story tomorrow.

TULANE-OLE MISS.

The firing is brisk elsewhere in the south. Tulane makes its debut under the new coaching regime of Lowell (Red) Dawson against the University of Mississippi but isn't likely to have much to cheer about. Dixie reports give "Ole Miss' a decided edge in this bout as well as a voice in the southeastern title race.

The expanded southern conference, in the seaboard sector, finds North Carolina and North Carolina State primed to bowl over freshmen members, Wake Forest and Davidson. Virginia Poly-Tech gets the call over Clemson, but Virginia Military figures to do no parading at the expense of South Carolina. Maryland is favored over St. Johns.

Georgia, Vanderbilt, Tennessee, Mississippi State and Alabama, among the stalwarts of the southeastern conference, do not appear to be running particularly risks against an assortment of non-conference opponents.

Stanford's defeat by Santa Clara is forecast in one of the west coast's headliners but this hardly would be an upset, if it develops. The Palo Alto Indians lost 16 of last season's 23 lettermen, including All-America Bobby Grayson, Keith Topping, Monk Moscrip and Bob Reynolds.

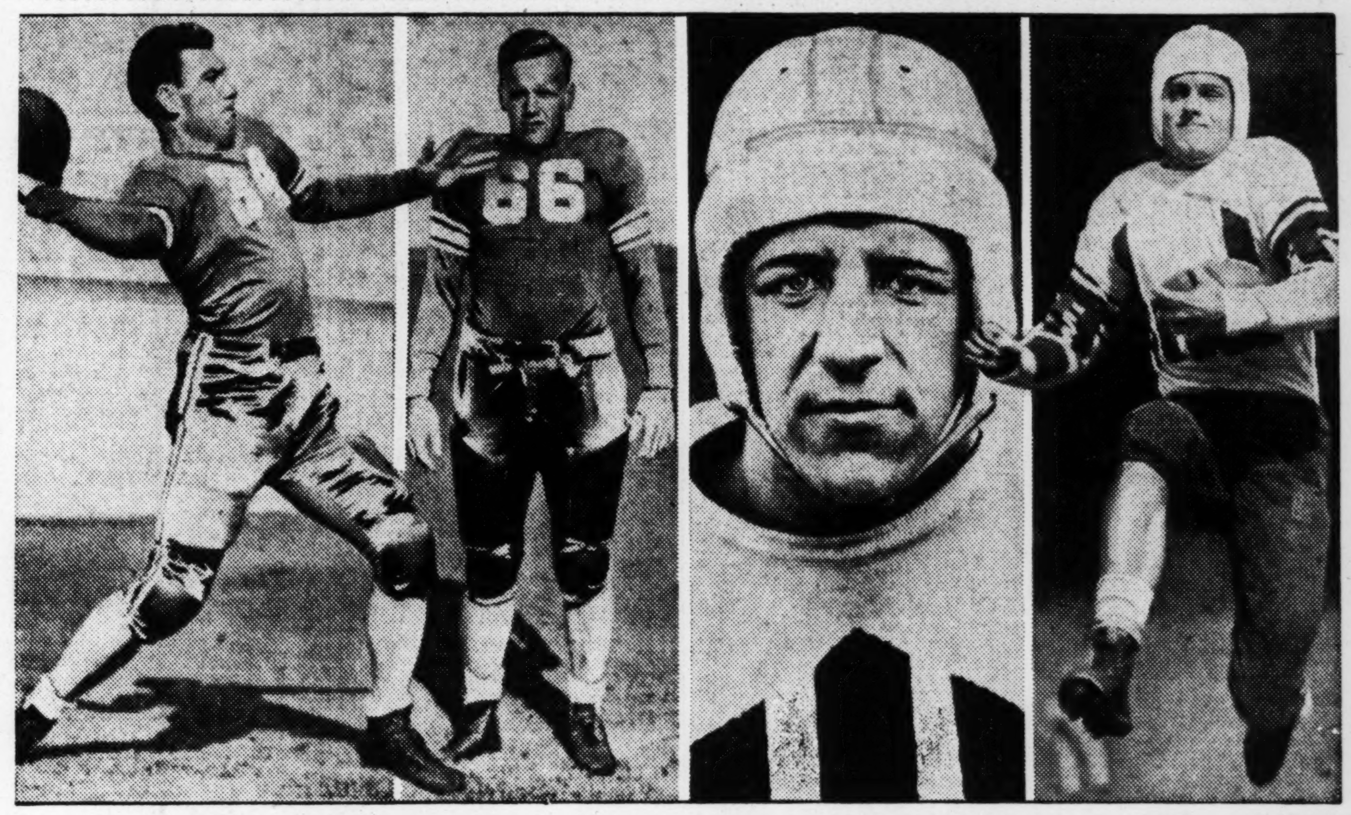
"Finest Backs" Clash in Duke-Colgate Game



Described by some football observers as "four of the finest backs in the nation," these war horses will match their wits and brawn in the Duke-Colgate battle at Durham, N. C., today. SMITHIES MEET DECATUR AT 8:00

Strong Prep Elevens Play Tonight at Ball Park.

Tech High and Decatur High will furnish the day's football attraction with a game at 8 o'clock tonight at Ponce de Leon park. The game was originally slated for Friday night, but due to the Tech-Presbyterian game, it was moved up to tonight instead, and will be played on the field adjacent to the right field grandstand.

Tech High defeated Erie Academy, of Erie, Pa., 14 to 7, in the opening game, and last week suffered a 13-to-6 defeat at the hands of Savannah High, at Savannah.

Tonight's game will be the first for Decatur, after some four weeks' of hard practicing.

The Smithies defeated Decatur 13 to 0, in opening both schedules last year.

Both teams lost heavily through graduation and will start practically new players tonight.

Tech High has shown considerable improvement over its opening game and will rule a slight favorite tonight.

Both teams, much lighter than in former years, will depend almost entirely on speed and deceptiveness. Coach Tolbert has changed Tech High's attack considerably, using the laterals excessively.

Coach Sullivan, a former Georgia star, also employs the Notre Dame system with variations and also will cut loose with a barrage of forward passes. and laterals.

MONROE AGGIES ROUT FOES, 57-0

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 25.—A powerful Monroe Aggie football eleven opened its schedule with a 57-to-0 victory over Eastonalle High here this afternoon. It was one of the most impressive openings of any Monroe team in recent years.

The Aggies started the scoring on the third play after receiving a visitor's punt. Slayton carried the ball to the final 15 yards for the score. Two more touchdowns were scored in rapid succession, after which a reserve team took the field.

The reserves, playing a majority of the second and third quarters and part of the fourth, found the going a bit tough and scored only two touchdowns against the north Georgia eleven. Kelly, a fast back, who will likely see plenty of service with the varsity, was the hero of the reserves' attack and scored both touchdowns.

Coaches Barron and Dean used every player in uniform.

The varsity, with Heisler, Slayton and Gavett carrying the ball, scored three touchdowns, mostly on long runs in the opening quarter. The reserves scored two in the second quarter and were held scoreless in the third.

The varsity took up the burden again in the last period and ran up four touchdowns in rapid order.

Paul Richards, Atlanta catcher, was the center of attraction shortly before the game. Monroe's boy crowded around him and listened to his many interesting baseball stories concerning the Crackers and their winning of the 1936 Southern league pennant.

Richards was the field judge and left here immediately after the game for Griffin where he worked Friday night—a double-header assignment in his first day of officiating. T. L. Johnson, 'Gonk' Gardner and Tom Slate were the other officials from Atlanta working the game.

Powerful Auburn Wins Easily, 45-0

Tiger Backs Run Wild Against Birmingham-Southern Before Crowd of 10,000.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Auburn's Plainsmen, featuring a long-range scoring attack, defeated Birmingham-Southern, 45 to 0, here tonight before 10,000 fans at Crampton bowl.

The Plainsmen, favored by many to win the Southeastern conference title, looked impressive in their opening game. The powerful varsity, presenting two brilliant backs in Hitchcock and Fenton, ran up 39 points in the first half and then retired to the sidelines to watch the reserves battle Southern during the last two quarters.

Lacking was a goal kicker to replace the husky Haygood Paterson, all-Southeastern tackle of 1935, and only three of the seven try for points were successful.

Hitchcock brought the stands to their feet time after time with his brilliant returns of punts, running one back 50 yards to score in the first quarter.

Fenton, his running mate at halfback, broke away for a 74-yard gallop to the goal line in the same quarter, and O'Gwynne, a substitute back, added the night's final thrill on the first play of the fourth quarter by smashing through tackle and sprinting 83 yards for a touchdown. Other Auburn scores resulted from Southern fumbles.

Birmingham-Southern made its boldest bid for a score in the third period when she pushed the reserves back to the four-yard line before the drive failed. Again in the closing moments of the game, aided by repeated penalties on Auburn, the Panthers went to the three-yard line as the game ended.

LANIER TRIUMPHS OVER TYPISTS, 24-0

MACON, Ga., Sept. 25.—The Lanier High Poets, believed to be one of the best teams to ever represent their school on the gridiron, opened their nine-game schedule here tonight, beating Commercial High, of Atlanta, 24 to 0, in Centennial stadium.

Each member of Lanier's first team backfield, Billy McAfee, right half back; Jack Matthews, quarterback; Tom Greene, fullback, and Clarence Welch, fullback, accounted for one touchdown.

Captain Bobbie Zimmerman, of the Commercial team, was taken from the game in the second period with a dislocated bone just below the knee cap in the right leg. The leg was placed in a cast and he was dismissed from a local hospital after it had dried. Wheeler, fullback, and Neal, end, were also injured in the tilt, but not seriously, according to Commercial High Coach Rufus Godwin.

FIRST TOUGH FOE.

COLUMBUS.—It's easy to see where the Ohio State coaches think the first tough opposition is coming from. Their plans call for a regulation game between members of the squad today and then a day off from practice tomorrow while the coaching staff goes to Pittsburgh to see Pitt play Ohio Wesleyan.

NEW BULLDOGS HOLD INTEREST IN FIRST GAME

Bears Will Be Seeking First Win in History Over Rivals.

By Felton Gordon.

ATHENS, Ga., Sept. 25.—The University of Georgia football team shined their passwork offensively and defensively this afternoon in their final drill before they clash with the Mercer Bears in the freshly polished Sanford stadium here Saturday.

Coach Lake Russell's Bears came in tonight, docked at a local hotel and awaited the kickoff, which is at 3:30 p. m. (eastern time).

It was a confident squad of Bulldogs which left the field after today's maneuvers. "We'll whip 'em but we'll have a tough time," seemed to be the keynote. They were all fired with the fighting spirit. This was accentuated by the first freshman pep meeting of the year, and the annual shirt-tail parade, which was held tonight.

LINEUP IN DOUBT.

The starting lineup still remained a matter of time development. Bob Law appeared to have the center post. Johnny Jones and Jim Cavan were eager for the right halfback position. Jones evidently has the nod since he has had two years' varsity experience. Crenshaw Bonner was almost a certainty to start at left end.

Bill Hartman was favored to open the contest at fullback.

On the probable starting lineup are six seniors and nine lettermen. Neither Bonner nor Gillespie, starting ends, have had varsity experience.

The squad was in good physical condition, with only Don Leebern, guard, and Paul Causey, left halfback, definitely out of play. X-ray showed Causey's leg to be in better condition than had been thought at first. No bones were broken. Water on the knee was evident.

AIR RAID.

The report from the Bear camp is to the effect that they intend seeking victory via the air route. When asked about this, Backfield Coach Rex Enright stated: "We fear the Mercer passing attack."

Due to his lack of reserves, injuries are a real fear of the genial Mercer coach. Jokingly someone quoted him as saying he plans to have an extra doctor at the field Saturday. "My boys were hurt considerably in the last quarter, last fall," he says.

Georgia will be heavily favored as Mercer seeks its first Bulldog scalp in the 40-year rivalry of the two schools.

Coach Harry J. Mehre, of Georgia, and Coach Lake Russell, of Mercer, announced the following probable lineups:

GEORGIA	Pos.	MERCER
Bonner	L.E.	Mattox
Haygood	L.T.	Tyson

Georgia Tech Crushes Little Presbyterian in Opener, 55-0

10,000 See Jackets Break Loose Late

Fighting Blue Stockings Trail Only 14-0 at Half; Alex's Team Most Impressive.

By Jack Troy.

A brilliant Georgia Tech team that did not find itself until the second half, last night crushed Presbyterian College, from Clinton, S. C., 55 to 0, in the opening game of the season.

Fully 10,000 supporters went to Grant field to see the Jackets in their season's inaugural, and also in their first night game, and went away with the feeling that the Jackets pack more speed, power and versatility than any Tech team since 1928.

Without resorting to their razzle dazzle but instead striking by land and air on running plays and forward passes, the Jackets came into their own after a first half that netted only two touchdowns.

The Gold and White went on from there. Touchdowns came with regularity in the third and fourth quarters, there being three in each period.

PRIMED FOR BATTLE.

The game got under way with P. C.'s Blue Stockings full of vim and vigor and game to the core. (They were not so vigorous toward the end naturally but they remained game to the bitter end).

The Blue Stockings held the Jackets scoreless in the first period and yielded two touchdowns in the second only after the most stubborn resistance.

But the Jackets, coming back for the second half and with Coach W. A. Alexander using various combinations, were a different team. They were possessed of the well-known knockout punch.

And P. C. staggered under the attack.

Tech scored twice in the second quarter, after Presbyterian's fight in the first; three more touchdowns came in the third quarter. The scoring continued in the fourth, with Anderson's interception of a Presbyterian pass and his 55-yard run to a touchdown as the feature.

ONLY THREAT.

P. C. made its only serious threat early in the fourth period when runs by Reynolds and June Moore put the ball on the Tech 19, first and 10. But on third down Reynolds fumbled and recovered on an attempted pass and then saw his next passing attempt intercepted by Fletcher Sims on the Tech 25.

Kicking of points after touchdown was an outstanding feature. Only one out of seven attempts was missed.

Incidentally, Jimmy Moore added the last two points after he missed the first one, but came through in great style on the next two. Time was when Tech would have given almost anything for one player who could kick an extra point.

Last night five players were given a chance and all five were successful, Sims and Moore leading with two apiece.

BLOCKING IMPROVES.

Tech blocking, ragged at first, improved as the game went along, and line play, featured by the vigorous work of Phil Chance, Ed Jones, Bill Jordan, Captain Fitzsimmons and others, was most impressive.

Ernest (Monk) Tharpe, regarded as the most improved Tech back, scored no touchdowns, but his brilliant work was responsible for a couple and his powerful plunging was one of the features.

The bare figures really show something.

Tech made 20 first downs, 19 of them earned. P. C. had five first downs, four of them earned.

The Jackets gained a grand total of 448 yards. They gained 171 yards alone on passing, which was outstanding. P. C. gained only 105 yards, 49 of them on passes.

It was a grand opening. The cool night air did not take half as much out of the players as would a game, for instance, played in the daytime at this season of the year.

FANS ON HAND.

And the fans came, regardless of the fact that many probably got lost trying to wend their way through the project puzzle of torn-up streets and intricate detours.

Captain Jacobs, Claud Cappleman, Bill Thompson, Steel Caldwell, J. L. Culp, June Moore, Jim Collings and

PELICANS HOME FOR THIRD TILT

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Disappointed but by no means licked, the New Orleans Pelicans returned home today after two straight setbacks and prepared to resume the final Southern association playoff with the Birmingham Barons Sunday afternoon.

Manager Larry Gilbert and his fighting Birds were determined to swing the tide the other way when the two teams clash again and will send his ace right-hander, Tom Drake, to the mound.

If Drake comes through with a win, Jonas Butzman, victim of last night's 8-4 trouncing, will be shoved right back Monday and Bill Thomas will work Tuesday if the series goes five games.

Riding high on top of their two wins, the Barons will entrain for New Orleans Saturday night, arriving the following morning. Manager Riggs Stephenson has named Roy Joiner for the opening contest here.

Druid Hills Wins Over Monroe High

MONROE, Ga., Sept. 25.—Druid Hills High, of Atlanta, defeated Monroe High, 19 to 0, here this afternoon. It was the opening game for both teams and play was erratic at times.

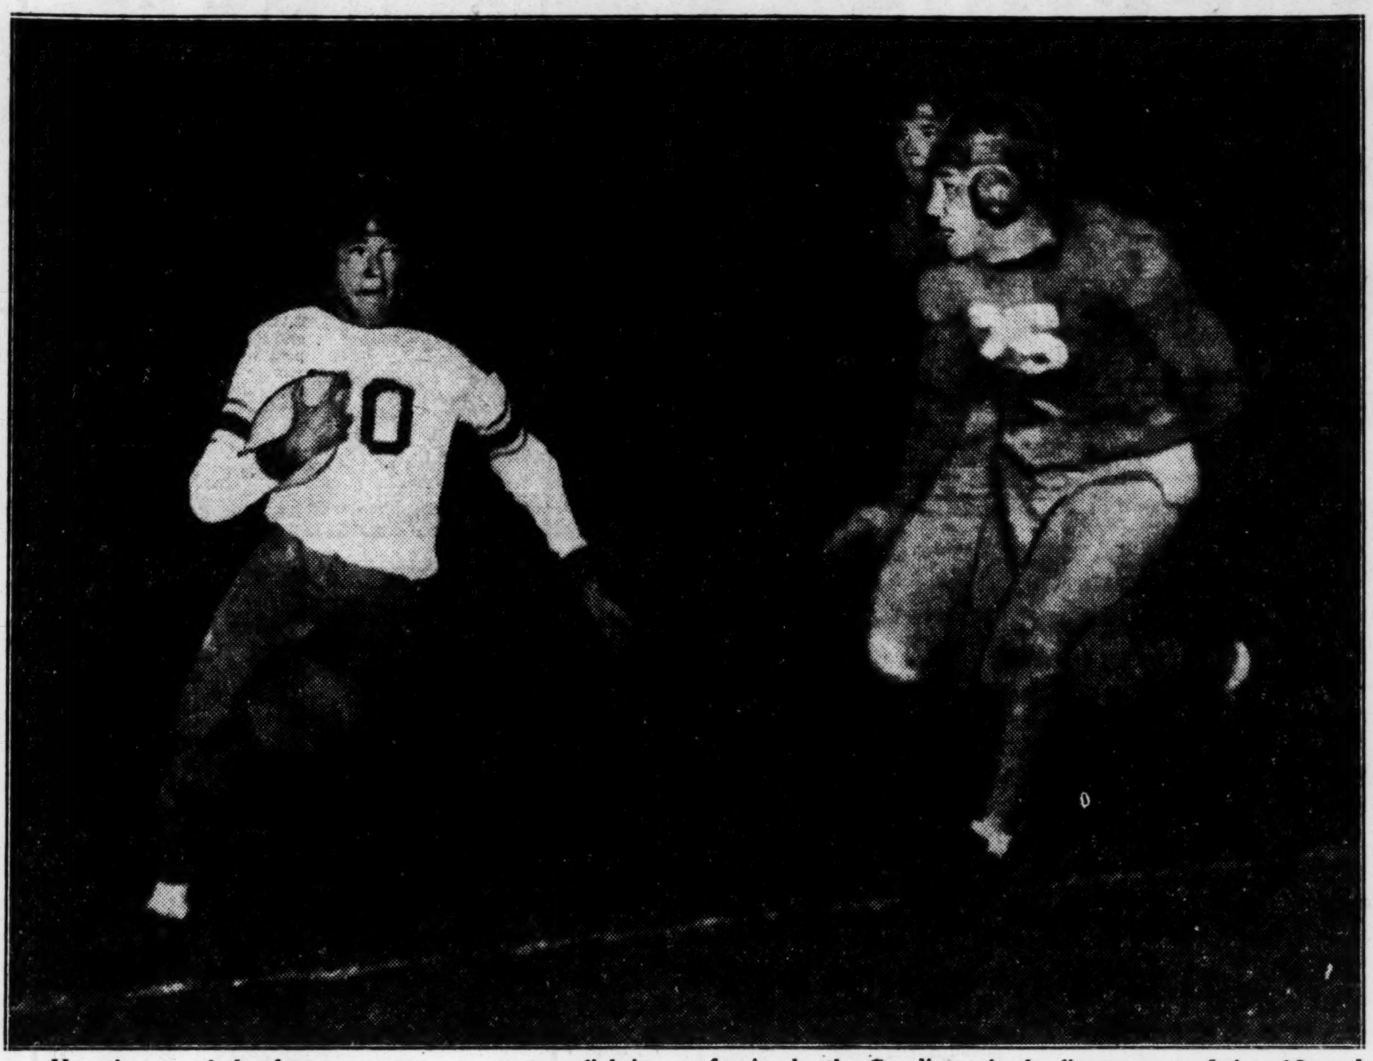
The visitors scored one touchdown in every quarter except the third.

Druid Hills' line was outstanding, checking every Monroe threat and opening wide holes for their backs.

Savannah Boxer Loses on Decision

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 25.—(AP)—Carl Knowles, 177, of Savannah, Ga., lost to Leroy Brown, 170, formerly of Charleston, S. C., by decision in a 10-round boxing bout here last night. Brown knocked Knowles down twice in the scrappy fight.

Presbyterian Back Skirts Tech Right End for 19 Yards



Here is one of the few prosperous moments a fighting Presbyterian team enjoyed against Georgia Tech in the opening game of the season for Coach Alexander's machine last night at Grant field, during which the visitors were put to rout. The play above featured a sudden and surprising offensive by the Carolinans in the first quarter. It is a 19-yard whirl around Tech's right end by Captain J. B. Jacobs, ace of the Blue Stockings. J. B. Lindsey, Jacket tackle, is closing on the Presbyterian back. The visitors made a game of it for two periods. Staff photo by Turner Hiers.

Jack Troy's Running Story of Tech-Presbyterian Game

FIRST QUARTER.

Tech's inaugural in night football was deemed a success when the whistle sounded for the kickoff. There were almost 10,000 supporters in the stadium.

The Jackets encountered unexpected opposition in the first quarter, which was scoreless. There was a bit of sparring after Hays received the opening kickoff on his three-yard line and returned to the 29.

Hays tried an off-tackle smash, picked up four yards and then kicked. Bill Thompson, quarterback, received the kick, returned it five to his 25 and promptly kicked.

It was a short kick and Hays fumbled; but so help me, he gained on the exchange as he recovered the ball. And so with the ball on their own 46, the Jackets made motions of going some place. Konemann went around left end for seven yards and Hays cracked tackle for 15 for a first down, Tech's first.

But the shovel pass, Hays to Konemann, gained only two and there were two incomplete passes thrown by Hays, following a short plunge by Appleby, and the ball went over to P. C. on downs.

And then the crowd saw an amazing thing. Thompson, starting on his own 28, plunged six. Captain Jacobs smashed off tackle for 19 yards. Thompson plunged five more after the first down.

At this point, Tech braced. And Jacobs placed a great punt in the coffin corner. It traveled from the 42 to the nine, where it was grounded. Tech was penalized for offsides and so Hays kicked. Thompson returned 12 yards.

But P. C. backs failed to gain and Jacobs punted out of bounds on the Tech 14. Hays and Appleby plunged for a first down, but the drive stopped when Correll shot into the Tech backfield and threw Hays for a loss.

Hays kicked and Thompson reeled a great 21-yard return to Tech's 44. But Jacobs was tackled by Chance for a 10-yard loss. Jacobs kicked and Hays took it on his 30. Hays and Konemann picked up a first down and Hays passed beautifully to Jordan for a 16-yard gain. P. C. was penalized five. Haye made it another first down as the quarter ended. Tech had made only five first downs. P. C. made one.

SECOND QUARTER.

It was actually the beginning of a 70-yard touchdown drive. Tech made some changes in the backfield. Scrappy Edwards entered the game, along with Fletcher Sims.

Starting off the second quarter, Appleby plunged to the P. C. 24-yard line. Edwards took it up from there. He dashed around end to the six, a brilliant run of 18 yards.

Harry Appleby handed the ball to Bill Jordan and Jordan swept around his own left end to score standing up.

Fletcher Sims kicked the first extra point of the season. The score was Tech 7, P. C. 0. It was a great 70-yard drive, showing a bit of the old Tech power.

The Jackets put on a 75-yard march in the same quarter to score their second touchdown.

It all started on the Tech 25. The charge was set off by Edwards and kept going by Ernest (Monk) Tharpe, who was playing a great game.

And there was a great pass, Sims to Ed Jones. It was good for a gain of 23 yards and Jones was knocked out of bounds on the 1-yard line by Reynolds.

Then Edwards was given the ball and he circled end for the second touchdown. Sims again kicked extra point.

There was no more scoring in the first half, which ended with Tech leading, 14 to 0.

THIRD QUARTER.

The Jackets really started clicking shortly after the kick-off. Hays accepted Jacob's punt and raced 28 yards to the P. C. 10.

Then the old reliable, the end around, was called into action again. Appleby handled the ball to Ed Jones, who circled right end for the necessary 10 yards and touchdown.

Dutch Konemann tried kicking the point after. It was right through the middle. And the Jackets led, 21 to 0.

After the kick-off, Jacobs punted and Hays raced 18 yards to the P. C. 24. Culp knocked him out of bounds on a great play. Hays raced off tackle for 13 yards to the P. C. 5. And Appleby scored from this punt.

Ed Jones kicked goal to give the Jackets an advantage of 28 to 0.

Dutch Konemann personally started the next touchdown drive. He took the kick-off on his one-yard line and returned 42 to the P. C. 43. He got behind the wedge and not a hand was laid on him until he had passed midfield.

Then one of two brilliant passes were completed. Sims shot a 44-yard pass to Konemann, who was tackled on the P. C. 10.

Sims passed to Konemann for an apparent score, but the play was called back and Tech penalized 5.

Then Sims passed 10 yards to Bill Jordan, who made a magnificent diving catch for a touchdown. Fitzsimmons kicked extra point and Tech led, 35 to 0.

Sims intercepted a pass by Jacobs and there were passes, Edwards to Moore, Edwards to Smith and a 23-yard aerial, Edwards to Moore. The ball was on the P. C. 29 and Edwards plunged 5 as the quarter ended.

Tech led, 35 to 0.

FOURTH QUARTER.

The final quarter was very young when Gay Thrash was off on the end around and plunged to the P. C. 8. Edwards shot off tackle for the touchdown. And for the first time, Tech failed to add point after. Jimmy Moore missed.

And so the score was 41 to 0.

After a short exchange, Jimmy Moore raced around end from the P. C. 45 to his own 23. And then Moore passed to Hays, who darted for the sidelines, shook off tacklers, changed direction and scored after a beautiful exhibition of sidestepping. Moore was good for the extra point this time and the score was increased to Tech 48; P. C. 0.

Coach Alex had been running in different combinations with regularity, and the final touchdown was scored by Junior Anderson on a pass interception.

Anderson intercepted Captain Jacobs' pass on his own 45-yard line, picked his field brilliantly with the aid of fine blocking and raced the 55 yards to the goal line.

Jimmy Moore again kicked extra point—two out of three is no mean average—and the Jackets had a 55-to-0 decision in their opening game.

A game Presbyterian team held Tech scoreless in the first period, began to weaken under the pounding in the second and was unable at all to cope with one of the best-looking Tech squads in years thereafter.

It was a most impressive opening victory.

TERRYMEN WIN AS CARDS LOSE TO CINCY REDS

Rookie McCarthy, Purchased From Yanks, Stars for Giants.

BOSTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Johnny McCarthy, the first-base youngster the New York Giants bought from the Yankees, blasted out an eighth-inning homer today to give the National league champions a 3-to-2 victory over the Bees.

The rookie, fresh up from the Yankees International league farm at at Newark, followed up his four hits for four times at bat in his first start yesterday, with a single as well as his round-tripper today to enable the Giants to cash in on Harry Gumbert's six-hit pitching.

It was Gumbert's third complete game of the season, his first since late May.

The Cincinnati Reds—troublesome all season—kept the St. Louis Cardinals from assuring themselves second place in the National League today by winning their only victory of the present series, 3 to 2.

A three-run attack in the second brought the victory that seemed slipping in the ninth when Pinch Hitter Rip Collins, first up, doubled and a typical gas house rally seemed imminent. But Ray "Peaches" Davis bore down and snuffed out the next three batters on two infield blows and a foul fly.

Joe Medwick, of the Cards, who set a new National League record for doubles when he hit his 63rd yesterday, added his 64th today in the third. But two already were out and Slugger John Mize couldn't bring him home.

The Warren Company defeated the Atlanta Crackers, 7 to 4, on the Warren Athletic field last night before a crowd of 4,000 spectators.

Johnnie Chambers, pitching for Warren, kept 10 hits well scattered, while Warren collected 15 off the offerings of Bobby Durham. Chambers also hit well at the plate, getting two safeties out of four trips to the plate and batted in one of the Warren runs.

The two teams play again on the Ponce de Leon diamond Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

RUFFING TAKES HIS 20TH GAME, BEATING MACKS

Roy Weatherly Hurt as Indians and Browns Divide Twin Bill.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The New York Yankees nosed out the Athletics, 6 to 5, in a ten-inning battle of home runs today, with Red Rolfe's round-tripper in the extra frame breaking up the ball game.

The victory was Red Ruffing's 20th pitching triumph of the season against 12 defeats.

Aided by Jimmy DeShong's seven-hit pitching plus nine walks and a balk by Boston pitchers, the Senators beat the Red Sox today, 9 to 3.

Washington got nine hits off Henry, Wilson and Bowers, scoring four in the third inning, one in the fourth and the last four in the seventh.

It was DeShong's 18th victory and gave Washington a full game hold on third place and put them but a game and a half out of second.

The Cleveland Indians lost their last mathematical chance to finish in the American League's first division when they divided a doubleheader with the St. Louis Browns.

The Tribe won the second game, 7 to 6, after the Browns took the opener, 8 to 2.

Roy Weatherly, Cleveland's hard-hitting rookie outfielder, collided with a right-field wall and knocked himself unconscious in the fourth inning of the nightcap, but he caught Clift's foul and retired the St. Louis third sacker before he "passed out." He revived and walked unassisted from the field.

Al Williams Faces Buford.

Atlanta's pennant-winning Crackers will play Buford, runner-up for national semi-pro honors at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at Buford in the second of three games of a post-season series.

The third game will be played at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at Ponce de Leon park, in the last baseball game of the season for Atlanta fans.

Al Williams will be Manager Paul Richards' hurling choice for the Crackers this afternoon, with Brown, Chatham, Lipscomb, Galvin, West, Leonard, Durham and Hutcheson also slated to play.

Manager Jake Smith will most likely use Grady Bassett or Cleo Jeter in today's game.

Buford has won more than 90 games against six losses this year and set a new semi-pro record of 35 straight victories, breaking the old record by four wins.

BRIGHT IDEA.

NEW YORK.—Jim Crowley, of Fordham, who comes up with a lot of bright ideas for football practice, has another one. For scrimmage he lines up two varsity teams, back to back, on the 40-yard lines and sends them against a pair of freshman elevens. That way he can watch 22 men in action at once.

Rich's Keeps Abreast of Prosperous Times; Expands and Renovates Entire Building

Every Floor Shows Effects of Careful Designing and Decorating

Business has been good and is getting better, and to keep abreast of prosperous times, Rich's, Inc., is completing an elaborate expansion program which has included the addition of another story to the building and a complete renovation of every department.

Seven stories now, with a recreation court on the roof, Rich's will compare favorably with any store in the nation. It is air-conditioned throughout, tastefully redecorated and rearranged in conformity with the latest depart-

The expensive china and crystal is shown in a special display room, separated from the department of everyday china and glassware. There is a brand new lamp shop and one of the most attractive little dress shops in town, where inexpensive frocks are offered

There is a nursery where shoppers may leave their babies in the care of a nurse—usually fifty youngsters may be found there in a day. Newcomers to Atlanta often make their friends in this nursery.

Men Also Have Store

Passing through the third floor, with its fifty fitting rooms the visitor will find linen, silks and piece goods on the second floor. Here is the Young Atlantan shop, where everything for boys and girls, from babies to students, may be found. Boy Scouts have made

RECORD PRICE FOR GEORGIA'S TOBACCO CROP

$17,585,270 Already Paid to Growers of State for 81,586,758 Pounds Marketed This Season

By the Associated Press

The first three weeks' sales on the Georgia tobacco market brought farmers $17,585,270.27, the greatest sum in the history of the industry in Georgia.

Garland Bagley, statistician of the State Department of Agriculture, said sales totaled 81,586,758 pounds, or an average of 21.55 cents a pound.

1936 Peach Crop High in Quality In Georgia

MACON Ga., Aug. 24—(AP)—Despite an extensive drought in the early season, Georgia's 1936 peach crop was perhaps the "cleanest and best all 'round," and the number of shipments compared favorably with those of the previous year, according to a summary of the peach season issued Saturday by the Georgia Peach Growers' Exchange.

The shipments this year were only slightly under last year, the report showed. The movement by rail was 8,127 carloads, while it was estimated that the equivalent of 1,500 to 2,000 carloads were handled by trucks and the equivalent of 300 carloads was sold to canneries.

Last year, the final report of the Federal-state market news service showed that a total of

Comfort First Thought

Visitors during the Harvest Sale will find concrete evidence of this confidence not only in the quality and quantity of goods offered, but throughout the store, where no expense has been spared to provide for the comfort and convenience of the shopper. It is the only store in Atlanta air-conditioned throughout, in every department on every floor.

There will be literally thousands of these visitors during the Harvest Sale, compressed into eight days instead of the usual month allotted for this event. Many will be from distant towns, from which inquiries concerning the Harvest Sale of 1936 began coming weeks ahead of the first announcement, heralds of visitors who wanted to time their trips to Atlanta to coincide with this opportunity to shop at Rich's.

One of the more interesting

At least 300 workers will be given temporary employment to augment the regular staff of 1,000 at Rich's to insure prompt and efficient service to all. Others, trained by Rich's officials, will be on call in case the crowds are larger than expected.

Rich's executives are proud of this unsolicited interest in their Harvest Sale. For it indicates better than anything else the fact that in the sixty-nine years Rich's has served Atlanta and Georgia, their Harvest Sale has become known as the period of definite savings on merchandise of the best quality—when purchases may be made at a saving of a fourth to a third on the normal prices.

Planned for Six Months

Behind the scenes at Rich's, in departments rarely seen by any of the public, an army of workers has been busy for six months completing plans for this one sales

FARMER INCOME RISES IN GEORGIA

Return Increases 14 Million Over Last Year, U. S. Reports

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—(AP)—The Agricultural Economics Bureau reported Wednesday Georgia's 1935 cash income from farm production increased nearly fourteen million dollars over that of the preceding year.

The 1934 income was given as $120,475,000 compared to receipts for the following year of $134,085,000.

Basing its figures on 78 crops and 13 live stock items, the bureau reported heavy increases in both classes of farm production: Crop receipts rose from $103,841,000 to $111,548,000, while live stock income increased from $16,634,000 to $22,537,000.

The bureau said farm value of

My Day

By ELEANOR ROOSEVELT

THE WHITE HOUSE, WASHINGTON, Thursday.—Rather a showery, windy day with gray skies, but it felt very nice to be out again. I even enjoyed such a prosaic errand as having my hair and nails done!

I was particularly interested a few days ago to see that John Masefield, the poet laureate of England, who has come here to read a poem of his at Harvard, made mention of the fact that our WPA was taking into account the needs of artists and writers, especially poets. Certainly the world would be a poorer place if it did not have "a Mainsail Haul" and "Reynard, the Fox." There is a vigor about Masefield's writing which carries you into whatever he is describing and makes you see it through his eyes. Let us hope that here in America we have saved some future John Masefield for posterity to enjoy.

The papers are rather terrifying reading these days, with Japan taking over Shanghai and the ever-growing tenseness in Europe. I have a curious kind of resentment about the physical damage done to age-old monuments in Spain.

It seems as though a generation that had gone mad was wiping out things which are really not their heritage alone, but the heritage of the world at large. We have looked upon these things so long as sources of education and culture and pleasure that to think of them being destroyed in the course of a few weeks in a very depressing sensation.

I wondered if I were the only one who felt this way, but my little nurse burst out with the same sentiments. Since then, one or two others have expressed the same point of view. I wish that it would become strong enough so that nations that have possessions which serve the whole world would feel a stewardship about them.

My daughter and her husband were here for the day yesterday and flew back to New York last night. They proved the fact that Lady Luck is someone to be wooed. When they left they were told that they might not get through to Newark. The plane which landed 15 minutes ahead of them had circled around a long time trying to find a hole to come through. Their plane came down to a smooth clear landing with no trouble at all.

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

WALKING GOOD EXERCISE.

Climb down off your high-heeled shoes and take a walk, which is not only one of the best possible exercises for your figure, but also one of the easiest to put into regular practice, and that's important.

IDA JEAN KAIN

At this season of the year, the tang and crispness in the air lure you out into the open. You feel like stepping along for the sheer joy of living, and, as a result, you experience the exhilarating effects of an exercise that compels you to fill your lungs with oxygen and breathe to capacity.

You know, by now, that oxygen is used only on demand of the muscles, but a brisk walk puts all your figure-controlling muscles to work and forces you to breathe properly.

How you walk, of course, determines the benefit you receive from this exercise, and it will be worth your while to check your posture occasionally. Walk right up to the wall until your toes, chin and nose are touching it. Or, if you prefer, take the suggestion of an artist to his models and stand with your back to the wall so that your weight is supported by your shoulders and head as well as your feet, which are a few inches from the wall base. Then, with the back of your head, push yourself away.

As you walk, pull yourself up to your full height, hips tucked in, chin, chest and abdomen up, shoulders back but relaxed, and away you go, looking as if your ideas were hitched to a star . . . and a tall star at that.

Low heels and right posture are important if you wish to benefit from walking.

Did anyone ever tell you not to point your toes out when you walk? Well, it is one of the worst things you can do. It will weaken your arches and throw the entire body out of alignment. Toeing out is almost as bad for your body as having the wheels out of line for your car. Point your toes straight ahead, and, to strengthen the arches, practice walking on a straight line, with the weight on the outer borders of your feet.

Walking is one of the most adaptable of all exercises. It is equally good for the fat and the thin. The reducer should speed along at the rate of three and three-quarters miles per hour to burn a couple of calories per pound of bodyweight. The thin person who is out to gain a little weight must hold herself down to an easy, ambling gait, which will, nevertheless, afford much needed exercise.

Walk every day—not just when you think of it. Take advantage of this crisp fall weather and get out into the open just as often as you can. With an appreciation of walking that assures you of daily exercise and a posture that does you credit, there is no reason why you should not cover a good many steps in the right direction—toward a better figure.

THE RETURN OF JOAN

BY JOSEPH McCORD

INSTALLMENT XXIV.

"Well . . . I know quite a few people up there. All sorts. I wouldn't be much surprised if some of the bunch couldn't line up a job for you. Might not be what you wanted . . . but it would do until something better turned up. Great experience. There's a lot to do and see there that doesn't cost more than the shoe leather."

"I couldn't afford to take a chance like that, Mac, much as I'd like to get away from everything and everybody."

"Maybe we could fix it together."

Joan's brown eyes lighted mischievously.

"Mac! I hope I haven't misjudged you!"

"No!" A dull red showed in his face. "Look here, Joan . . . I made up my mind that I wasn't going to worry you. But I love you. That's why. I suppose it isn't being done . . . but I could help if you'd let me."

"That's dear of you, Mac," she cried softly. "Don't think I can't understand . . . and appreciate. I haven't known you very long, but I trust you. More than you know. There's no one in the world, I believe, that I'd turn to sooner."

"Do you mean that?"

"Yes, Mac, I mean it."

"Then let's do something about it. On your own terms. You can trust me, Joan . . . even if you're going to think I've been holding out on you. I haven't much. That job I was telling you about did put my eyes on the blink. No fooling. The optician told me to lay off for a while and keep out in the fresh air. The fellow who told me about Waples was Bill Knowles, the newshound I wrote to about the Elledges. That's all on the level."

"But you really are a rich man's son in disguise," Joan smiled. "Either that, or an author, or a . . . an investigator. I've had my suspicions for some time."

"Shucks! Nothing like that . . . wish I were. My dad's a farmer. I'll have to hand it to him for being a smart one. Always seems to know how to make a little, in spite of the raw deals the profession is supposed to get all the time. And I'm certainly no dick. Wish I were," he added glumly.

"Then tell me. I can take it."

"Well, about the time the depression got nicely under way, I thought I had evolved something new in a stage-lighting device that was the berries . . . spent a lot of time on it and all my cash. I knew it was good, but I couldn't get anybody to even sniff at it. So I put in my time trying to improve the gadget until the clouds broke. I made my coffee and cigarets by doing any odd jobs that came along. And I widened my acquaintance all I could. A month ago . . . I got my break.

"Oh, I'm glad."

"Maybe you think I wasn't. I got a breathing spell just when I needed it most . . . came near having to go back to the farm, same as you. Don't think for a minute I'm rich . . . nothing like it. But I'm set to go ahead. If the wolf hangs around my door too much now, he's likely to find me wearing him to football games. That's why I said we could figure out something . . . between us. Gosh, but I'd be tickled sick if you'd let me."

"Mac!" Joan's eyes trembled a little and she winked back the sudden tears. "The most I can say is . . . you'd be like that."

"I know you want to ge away, Joan. I think it would be . . . a good idea. Wouldn't you consider letting me stake you?"

"It wouldn't be quite fair. . . ."

"Why not? I don't believe it would be any time at all before you landed something. Bill could pull a lot of wires . . . and, later on, you and I could have a swell time. I mean I know my way around the dump from one end to the other. Please."

"I . . . I couldn't, Mac. I'm sorry. But I think we'd better let things go as they are for a little. It will work out some way. But it does give me something . . . to hold to. And that means more than you know. I guess I shouldn't ask you. . . ."

"Ask me anything you want."

"Then is there some reason . . . some particular reason why you want me to leave here just now?"

"I told you. . . ." Deeds said hesitatingly. "I don't think you're happy. That's what I want more than anything." There was no doubting his sincerity. Joan gave his nearest hand a little pat.

"All right. I believe you . . . same as I know you're lying. But you've been very dear about it. And I think we should start back now. We might catch up with some of the crowd."

"That's final?"

"Final for now, Mac. If anything happens . . . . I promise I'll come to you. I know I may. If anybody asks where we've been, we'll say that I wanted to show you the new pier. You can pretend you hadn't seen it." She rose to her feet and stood waiting.

"Joan . . ." Deeds choked a little as he looked into her clear eyes. "I . . . somehow, I can't make myself think it's hopeless. You did say there was no one else."

"I know I did, Mac. There isn't. But it is hopeless, just the same. You must believe me . . . you must."

"That's all right. I'm not blaming you. You're trying to get it across to me that you couldn't learn to care. That's it. Isn't it?"

Deeds never was to forget the picture Joan made as she stood at his side looking out across the ocean. The sun had gone and a soft grayness was stealing over the water. For the moment, the voices of near-by people seemed hushed. There was only the endless wash of the surf, subdued, melancholy. He saw the light breeze stir Joan's hair . . . once his cheek had rested on its softness.

Her lips moved.

"It would be so easy, . . . Mac." She caught herself, turned her started eyes to his. "No, no! I didn't . . . think. We must hurry. Please!"

Deeds and Joan walked back to the Casino in silence.

As they were about to pass the entrance, Claire's voice hailed them and that young woman appeared with Gene strolling at her side.

"I wondered where you two had gotten to," Claire greeted them. "The others started on some time ago. I've been playing a machine with Gene's nickels and just exhausted the supply. We'll loaf along with you . . . If you're headed back to the house."

"We are," Joan said at once.

Deeds fancied there was relief in her tones. It was just as well, at that. It would look as if the four of them had been loitering together. They walked along chatting idly, until the cottage was reached.

"How would you folks like to take a little ride down the road?" Gene suggested as they neared the porch. "If two of you don't mind squeezing in behind."

"Thank you, I must go in," Joan said quietly. "The rest of you go."

"Not I," Claire announced. "I overstepped all fasting bounds tonight. There are some strings that need to be loosened," she added frankly. "Take Deeds with you, Gene. He hasn't seen much of the country around here. There'll be a moon later."

"Like to?" Gene turned to Deeds.

"Very much."

"Come along then . . . we'll see if the bus is in running order."

A few moments later, they were rolling along the highway in a southerly direction.

"We might drop down as far as Harbor Gate," Gene observed, "if you've never been there. Not much to see . . . nice beach and one of the best pavilions around here. Fair orchestra as a rule."

"Fine."

Deeds was glad that his companion was not inclined to talk during the ten-mile drive. He was busied with his own thoughts, of the past few hours. And Joan.

He wished she were by his side now. Just the two of them . . . he at the wheel, stealing an occasional glance at her. He could almost see Joan leaning back against the cushions, the wind in her hair. And here was the moon, lifting up out of the sea . . . sending a glittering path across the restless water. Something in the beauty of the picture brought a pang of loneliness. He always would want to share beautiful things with Joan . . . no one else. He was in love with her, even if . . . she couldn't care. But she had said it would be "easy" to care. She hadn't intended to let him know. But it was true. And the thought of it set his heart to beating.

Joan.

Gaston parked the car on a public lot and the two men strolled through the crowds, watching the passers-by idly. The usual crowd. The usual raucous cries of barkers. The usual odors . . . popcorn, hotdogs. A red-coated jazz orchestra in the pavilion, lights and streamers. Huge polished floor with couples shuffling about, half running, walking slowly, weaving.

"What do you say we get out of this mess?" Gene queried abruptly. "Uuless you'd like to try to pick up somebody for a dance. Sometimes you can."

"Not for me. I'd rather beat it, if you don't mind."

"Then let's go down on the sand and have a smoke."

"Suits me."

It more than suited Deeds to be apart from the crowd. The music, at this distance, was restful. The babel of voices reduced to a murmur. And Gaston didn't seem inclined to talk. Instead, he sat with his arms hugging his knees, looking out on the water, pulling meditatively on his pipe. Deeds was startled to hear him say, after a long silence:

"Does the water . . . all this . . . do things to you, McCune?"

"What sort of things?"

"Oh, I don't know . . . not depressing exactly. I guess it's the bigness of it . . . if you know what I mean. As far as time counts, that same ocean has always been there like it is now. Restless, but solid. It makes you wonder sometimes what it thinks of the human bugs that scuttle around on the shore as if nothing mattered but them. If they go floating about on chips, the sea isn't bothered. When you look at it that way, the ocean's rather restful. It's one thing that doesn't change"

"Yes," Deeds admitted slowly, "I think I know what you mean. It makes a fellow see how insignificant he is, after all."

He regarded Gaston curiously. The moon was shining full on his companion's face, illuminating his features in sharp detail. It might have been the shadows, but Gene's face suddenly looked sunken. His eyes appeared somber, dreamy. He seemed to have shed his usual air of indolent self-possession. There had been a touch of something approaching wistfulness in his last words.

When he spoke again, it was hesitatingly.

"It's queer . . . I guess it is insignificance. Makes you wonder how much is worth while, if anything. It's all over so damnably quick. Maybe a fellow is entitled to the easy outs . . . if he can get them. Ever think of it?"

"Sure." Deeds was growing more and more puzzled; Gaston was about the last one he would expect to turn philosophic. Must be he was a sort of fatalist, or something. "You're right," he conceded. "If you want to look at it that way. But most of the uplifters try to make us think that it's an adventure. Pep stuff . . . make the world better, and all that sort of thing. I suppose that's a good slant, seeing we're here and have to make the best of it. It's as good an existence as I've tackled to date," he finished whimsically.

Curses upon the girl whose hobby is finding gray hairs.

Some girls are as gleeful over finding a gray hair in a friend's head as an ethnologist is over finding a mummy. And to heck with ethnologists, say we. Also with gray hair hunters.

They should know better. But they don't. It may sound as cute as the very dickens to lean over the back of Suzy Ann's chair and squeal: "Look, look, I found a gray hair!" It probably is even cuter when you can carefully separate this hair from all the others in Suzy Ann's head and then with a big ostentatious jerk yank it out.

But we'll wager Suzy Ann doesn't think it's cute, no matter how many other people in the room may laugh.

So if you want our advice, lay off that stuff. Some people are born with gray hairs in their heads. And some of them grow white just because there are so many gray hair hunters around.

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

A LITTLE SATURDAY TALK.

An interesting letter from Mr. Julius Butz contains questions which I shall take up today:

"Astronomers tell us the sun throws off 50,000,000 tons of energy every minute. Multiply that by the 2,500,000,000 years the sun is said to have shone, and I think the result will exceed the entire (present) mass of the sun. Why doesn't the sun's heat become less?"

We cannot tell the exact age of the sun, but it is true that scientists say it is hundreds of millions of years old, if not billions. It is also true that it throws off a vast amount of heat each minute.

While the sun was "young" it must have been of far greater size than it is now. Astronomers have studied stars which are hundreds, even thousands, of times as large as our sun. Such stars are classes as "young" ones. Smaller stars are more dense and are classed as being "old."

There are reasons to believe that more heat came to the earth during the age of dinosaurs than we receive now. However, any change in the sun's heat is so slight that it would not be noticed in anyone's lifetime. Our sun may finally "burn to a cinder," but the earth is likely to receive plenty of heat for millions of years to come.

"What keeps the earth spinning? Why doesn't it stop as a top stops?"

There may come a time when the earth will stop "spinning." At least one planet is believed to have stopped, or at least to spin only once while it makes a complete trip around the sun. That planet is Mercury, which seems to twist, or spin, only once in 88 of the days we count on earth. The earth's moon twists only once while it is making a trip around the earth. Maybe the earth, in far time to come, will slow down in its spinning so it turns only once while making the yearly trip around the sun, but we need not worry about that—if it does happen, it surely will not be for millions of years.

"If the pull of the moon can lift the ocean, why does it not lift the loose things on land?"

Because the loose things on land are not large and heavy enough. There is a tide even on some lakes, as Lake Michigan, but a very small one. The oceans have bigger tides, but the ocean's waters are not lifted "too far" because of the greater gravity pull from the earth. There is a gravity pull between the moon and all objects on the earth, but the moon's pull on small things is so small that we cannot measure it.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, middling, f.o.b., 12.45.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at 10 southern spot markets was 11.94 cents a pound.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Easiness in distant months brought the cotton market lower today and options closely, irregularly off.

Fair notice day in the October options resulted in the issuing of tenders of 1,900 bales at New Orleans and 6,400 bales at New York. At New Orleans the tenders were stopped quickly and the market held above the previous close during the morning.

Better cables helped the opening tone that saw both October and December touch 11.88 and May sell at 11.74. But in late dealings persistent hedging began to make itself felt and the market slumped off. October finished at 11.83, a point up, but March at 11.73, May at 11.70 and July at 11.57 were from 4 to 9 points lower.

Transferring of hedges from near to distant months was another factor that served to bring later months lower.

The weather offered little news. There were scattered rains along the northern part of the belt, extending over into the Carolinas, but had little effect of prices.

There was no sign of a let-up in the demand for and the movement of cotton. At primary markets today 68,913 bales changed hands. Exports of 23,919 bales today brought the total for the week to 132,966 bales, an exceptionally good movement for this time of the season.

Port receipts, 99,610; week, 329,606; season, 1,465,766; last season, 1,276,371. Exports, 23,919; week, 132,966; season, 659,019; last season, 551,812. Port stocks, 1,874,134. Stocks on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston were 85,413; last year, 62,144. Spot sales at southern markets were 68,913; last year, 44,134.

COTTON RECEDES ON N. Y. MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Cotton was lower today under hedge liquidation and foreign selling. December declined from 11.90 to 11.78 with the general market 3 points higher on October to 8 points lower on other months.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 6 points higher with near months firm on covering by shorts while later deliveries were easy under hedging and liquidation. Prices held fairly steady right after the call, but the market later weakened when sentiment was unsettled by nervousness over the French monetary situation. Houses with continental connections were credited with selling.

The first October notices amounted to 6,200 bales and were said to have been stopped by the trade.

Exports today, 16,393, making a total of 637,815 for the season. Port receipts 77,705. United States port stocks, 1,862,270.

Sugar and Coffee.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Raw sugar was unchanged today for both spot and forward positions with a sale confirmed of 40,000 bags of over-quota Puerto Ricos for October shipment at 3.40.

Refiners generally were inclined to hold off, although it was believed that they would pay this price for this year's quota. Nothing was firmly offered below 3.45.

Futures declined 2 to 3 points early on the more active positions, under commission house liquidation which appeared to have been promoted by nervousness over the French monetary situation but rallied later on covering and trade buying. The close was net unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales were 8,450 tons.

The range follows:

	High	Low	Last
November	2.53	2.49	2.51b
January	2.47	2.45	2.46b
March	2.44	2.41	2.43b

Refined was unchanged at 4.75 for fine granulated with moderate withdrawals reported. Another local refiner announced its price would be 4.75 on Monday for prompt and 30-day contracts with a special discount of 3 cents per hundredweight on sugar actually shipped within 10 days from date of contract and 1½ cent per hundredweight on shipments from the tenth to the twentieth day.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Coffee was irregular today with European selling and near-month liquidation offset by trade buying and covering. Santos opened 13 lower to 1 higher and closed 2 lower to 1 higher. Sales 19,750. New No. 7 opened unchanged to 1 higher and closed 4 higher to 2 lower. Sales 9,750. Closing quotations: Santos, December 8.83; March 8.72; May 8.69; July 8.70; September (1937) 8.71. NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Stocks toppled today as the French financial crisis seemed to presage imminent devaluation of the franc or establishment of a gold embargo.

Losses among leaders ranged from fractions to 2 points generally, with a few declines much wider. A number of shares, though, managed to weather the storm with moderate gains.

The reversal came in the face of highly cheerful domestic business and industrial developments.

Industrials and rails bore the brunt of selling, although utilities were not far behind. Recently strong specialties were among the first to go overboard.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks suffered a net loss of 1.3 points at 67.1, the largest dip since August 21, last. Transfers totalled 1,513,930 shares against 1,193,840 yesterday.

Apparently bolstered by the huge British equalization fund, the franc held about even during the greater part of the day, but was still around the gold shipping point. The New York Federal Reserve bank announced arrangements had been made today for the transfer from Paris to New York of some $43,000,000 of gold. Sterling reflected support accorded the franc by dropping several cents in the terms of the dollar.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—The weight of doubt surrounding the immediate future of the French franc sent all sections of the bond market to lower ground today.

Pronounced pressure was exerted against the French currency early in the day and as the discount for 90-day future contracts grew, the volume of bond offerings increased. Total turnover for all issues was $17,049,000, face value, compared with $12,880,000 Thursday. The total was the largest in any session since July 15, last, when $20,573,000 was recorded.

French government loans broke sharply on moderate dealings, the unstamped 7s losing 12 points to 160 and the stamped bonds dropping 9 1-8 to 163.

Little quarter was given railroad obligations, which were thrown for losses all along the line.

Utility and industrial bonds closed fractions to more than 3 points lower with the widest losses suffered by convertible issues. Among few exceptions were Colorado Fuel & Iron 5s, which gained 1 to 85 following publication of initial earnings for the reorganized company showing a substantial profit for the first six months.

United States government issues reacted for losses to 7-32 of a point. The great bulk of trading was done in the 2 3-4s of 1956-59, which accounted for $3,168,000 of the $3,580,000 turnover in that section. The issue closed 2-32 of a point lower on the day.

The Associated Press averages for 20 rails declined .5 of a point to 96.5. Losses of .2 of a point were registered by the 10 industrials and 10 utilities. Setbacks of .1 of a point were shown by the foreign and low yield groups.

INDUSTRIAL EQUITIES LEAD CURB RECESSION

General Trend Is Determined by Big Board; Gulf Oil, Aluminum Co. Lose.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—(AP)—With its course determined by the downward movement on the big board, the curb market lost ground in all departments today.

Industrials were most affected by selling, Aluminum Co. of America dropping 4 1-2 to 130; Gulf Oil 3 3-8 to 100 1-2, and American Manufacturing 1 1-2 to 35 1-2.

Declines ranged from fractions to around a point in American Gas & Electric, closing at 39 5-8; Electric Bond & Share at 21 1-4; Lake Shore Mines at 56; Northern States Power "A" at 33 1-2, and Newmont at 85 1-4.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass moved against the trend, finishing 7-8 higher at 133 1-8. Creole Petroleum and Pan-American Airways showed minor gains.

Transfers were 317,000 shares against 281,000 yesterday.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Until the situation in France concerning devaluation is cleared up, we do not expect any great strength or activity in the market, but we feel that underlying conditions as regarding business in this country are so favorable that a decline in the market will not go very far at this time, and that selective purchases on declines will prove to be satisfactory.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe any further market weakness should provide an opportunity for extending long commitments.

BEER & CO.—We continue to be of the opinion that actual French devaluation would prove only a temporary factor in our markets. The meeting of the French cabinet, scheduled for this afternoon will be watched with interest for a clue to the probable course of events over the week end.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Nervousness over the French currency situation was obvious in Friday's market although it appears as if there was fair to good demand for stocks on a moderate scale down. We would regard nervousness as only temporary.

COTTON OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Should speculative activity follow the strong statistical position, the result would be a fast advance, so we would urge still down buying on any further pressure exerted by the moving crop.

FENNER & BEANE—We believe that the market will absorb these without much recession and that prices will again work up as soon as the pressure lets up.

BEER & CO.—We continue to favor purchase of cotton around present levels.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Market Friday featured strength in October contracts which reflects the strong domestic spot situation. We believe next major move will be upward.

HUBBARD BROS. & CO. TO DOBBS & CO.—The action of the market, all things considered, would not discourage the expectation of ultimately higher prices.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

COURTS & CO.—Unsettlement in foreign money markets should logically cause a recession. However, crop scares in the Argentine and Australia are highly possible and should they materialize the prices would respond rapidly.

FENNER & BEANE—We think the fundamentally strong world conditions will bring in adequate support on any further setback.

BEER & CO.—Apparently the new winter wheat crop will start off with soil conditions, so far as moisture is concerned, excellent.

E. A. PIERCE & CO.—Believe that monetary uncertainties and reports of improved southern hemisphere crop conditions may take the edge off the market for the time being.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Severe unsettlement of European exchange rates did much to tumble wheat values down 2 5-8 cents a bushel maximum today.

Wheat here closed nervous, 1 3-8 to 2 cents under yesterday's finish, September 117 1-4 to 117 3-8, December 115 1-8 to 115 1-4, May 114 1-8 to 114 1-4, corn 1-2 cent off to 3 cents up, September 115 3-4 116, December 95 1-4 to 95 3-8, May 90 1-4 to 90 3-8, oats 3-8 to 3-4 down, December 42 1-2, and rye showing 1-4 to 1 cent setback, December 83. Provisions results were unchanged to 7 cents lower.

Some trade observers said buying support in wheat improved at around $1.14 1-2 for December contracts, the day's low point, and that the closing tone was fairly firm. Notice was also taken by various specialists at northwestern domestic mills, were reported as seeking to purchase cash wheat at Omaha. Canadian rural wheat marketings for 24 hours, totaled but 1,463,000 bushels against 3,955,000 a year ago.

Your astrological forecast includes a sun-chart and planetary interpretations, designtaed by numbers on your sun-chart. Watch carefully day by day for your numbers.

NUMBER 502—The indications are that speculation will not be fortunate for you. You should invest in those things that come under the head of non-speculative investments. Start early to acquire the habit of thrift. You will find that money will come to you in "spots." At those times when you have additional money, instead of following a tendency to rather expansive spending, save, and then you will be protected against unusual demands as they come along. I cannot emphasize the necessity of thrift habits too strongly. Children's interest and education should now be mapped out.

NUMBER 803—The indications are that you will take a trip. If not a long one, then there will likely be a short one. You are receptive and have excellent intuitive powers. You are able to "sense" what business or social competitors have in mind and there is no reason why you should not profit. You have many varied talents and can be depended upon to do well whatever you undertake, when you apply yourself properly.

NUMBER 404—The indications are that you are an excellent home maker, neat and tidy. You are strongly domestic and to you, there is no place "like home." Regardless of obstacles, you will always want to "own your home," and by diligence, and application, there is no reason why you should not accomplish this desire. Don't change your mind too often, nor go exploring uncharted seas of endeavor.

NUMBER 305—You have a strong and lasting love nature, and any form of deceit will cause you to lose confidence that it is hard to regain. You have a deep understanding of children's nature and are popular with them.

Friendly Counsel

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

This is about friendship. Not any syruppy sentiments here. Not any poetic figures of speech, epigrams and platitudes with quotes and unquotes. Just some practical observations on the real thing which, in last analysis, is prosaic business, requiring head and heart work, hand and foot work.

We can attach people to us if we are charming, keep them satisfied for a while by swapping yarns, discussing books and folks, talking about ourselves and listening to what they have to say about themselves. But this won't last long. The closer we come to people and they to us the more obligations are incurred. If we don't recognize these obligations, or if we skin them, the friendship jig is up.

Every now and then a hard-boiled businessman steps up to assert that it is much cheaper for the poor and moderately poor to rent than own their homes. Usually there is a woman present who wants to start an argument on the subject and she tells him that one must count the joy of possession when figuring on this proposition. To which the man invariably replies that joy won't pay upkeep, insurance or taxes. Perhaps it is cheaper in dollars and cents to rent rather than own a home. Likewise it is cheaper to have casual friends rather than intimate friends. Keep them casual and you have a lot of hard work, a lot of emotional strain but you miss a lot of heart satisfaction. Nothing is more costly than keeping close friendships in repair.

David and Jonathon, Damon and Pythias, Ruth and Naomi and all the other famous friends that have found their way into literature make friendship read a thing of pretty poetry, simple and sublime. These stories don't mention the little disagreements that took place between the friends, nor the irritations that one caused the other, nor the determined effort each of them made to keep friendship in balance. But put it down, they made the effort or they would never have made the front pages of history.

Here are a few tips for those who would keep their friendships in repair:

Accept your friend as is. You can't change him.

Find out what he wants of you, give it if you can, regardless of the cost.

Lay off criticism—few can take it and nonobdy relishes it.

Be generous with your approbation—everybody will eat it with a spoon.

Settle small disagreements as they arise, avoiding the impasse.

Be quick to sympathize when there is sorrow and as quick to congratulate when there is good luck.

Keep the lines of communication open and humming. This means visiting, inviting, writing, telephoning, remembering anniversaries and giving gifts.

Always let the friend learn from your lips rather than from gossipers and newspapers of the big events that are happening in your life. And remember that you will have to take what they give you without protesting that it is not enough, without demanding more; for the protests will irritate, the demands will get you nothing.

The poets and the sentimentalists haven't said a bit too much about the beauty of friendship, but the cost of upkeep is high. Are you willing to pay? CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Culbertson on Contract

By ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Herewith is presented another portion of Mr. Culbertson's latest work on contract, the "Gold Book of Bidding and Play," which is being reproduced in this column in daily installments.

THE FORCING PRINCIPLE.

At the start of the bidding the partners are in the situation of two allied armies groping in total darkness. Partner's (and opponents') honor strength and distribution or suit length are unknown. Almost any opening bid is a leap in the dark. The responding hand, though better off after receiving the first message from his ally, will as a rule need much more information before completing the maneuvers for the final position, or bid, at which to give battle. Hence the strategy of cautious advances by both partners, the scouting approach bids pushed out ahead of the main body of hands as "feelers" to reconnoiter for game possibilities or to fall back on defensive positions.

It will at times happen that a glance at the hand will suffice to see a game and even the prospects of a luscious slam. Such a hand bristles with aces and kings and usually contains two or three suits with untold possibilities—untold because success will usually depend upon the selections of the right bid out of several bids available.

In all cases, without exception, it is important not to spurt wildly toward the goal like an untrained horse smelling its stable, but to double your condition. It is the purpose of the forcing principle scientifically to approach a game on a slam by the utmost economy of rounds, and yet a banish the fear that partner will prematurely abandon the bidding.

TODAY'S HAND.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump
Pass	Pass	Double	Redouble
Pass	Pass	Pass

South's two no trump was the not unusual type of bluff bid based on a "runout" to a long suit. While I easily migh have made the same bid, I will confess freely that I would have run like a startled fawn from the three no trump redouble!

South, admitted, after the hand was over, that he, too, had quailed at the thought of what mighth appen to him, but, half through stubbornness, half through irrespressible hope that his club suit would bring in seven tricks, he had determined to stick by his guns.

West opened the three of spades (the correct lead on the bidding) and dummy played the 10. East took the king, and, after a long huddle, returned the queen of clubs.

Declarer now did a thing that few players would have the courage to do. He ducked without the slightest hesitation! He was sure of one thing: That with all the low clubs in his own hand, West's follow suit card would have to be a high one. And on that fact he built the hope that East would continue the club suit, having apparently located West's strength.

East should have been "leery" of a long club suit in declarer's hand—on what else could he have predicated his obviously "phony" two no trump bid? But East did not analyze that closely. He saw his partner's seven of clubs, jumped to the conclusion that declarer feared the suit, and followed up with the club jack! Curtain!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Is a six-card suit without honors rebiddable?

Answer: Yes.

TARZAN AND THE MAYAN GODDESS No. 78

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

© 1936, Edgar Rice Burroughs, Inc.—Tm. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
JUHRE
9-19

From the nature of the country, with which she was somewhat familiar, Ula Dale recognized that they were nearing the region of the Lost City. But her buoyant excitement was stilled by Tarzan's reminder that their foe still stood between them and their goal. . . .

. . . Merlin Raglan pressed on furiously, urging his porters to greater speed by merciless blows of his fists. He was driven by a mad desire to reach the Lost City, where the fabulously jeweled Green Goddess had been hidden for centuries from the Outer World.

His mind, however, was painfully disturbed because his henchman Paco, whom he had left behind to kill Tarzan, had not returned. What had happened? Had Paco failed, and then fled to avoid the penalty for failure? Or had Paco been killed by the cunning, powerful ape-man?

Raglan was perplexed. He had exhausted all his tricks; Tarzan had overcome every obstacle he had been able to contrive. Now there was only one solution to his problem. He must be on the alert; and if by chance the ape-man overtook him, he must shoot to kill!

Tech has been very shy of points after touchdowns for years and years.

When the second point is added after the second touchdown the crowd cheers it loudly.

The Presbyterians are fighting hard and with some skill. They know the game and J. D. Jacobs can kick with any man. They are gamesters, the Presbyterians. Even with Blue Stockings they could fight no better.

IT BECOMES APPARENT.

It becomes apparent that night football takes less out of the players. The cool night air does not reduce them, as does the sun, to the condition which the late Grover Cleveland termed innocuous desuetude.

The first half goes by with just three time outs. It is much faster than the day games at this period of the year.

OH, MR. ALEXANDER.

Oh, Mr. Alexander, I am wondering if you can hear me over there.

It is very wearing on my nerves to watch your two boys, the Messrs. Lawrence Hayes and Dutch Konemann carrying that football in one hand on those end runs.

They haven't dropped it yet but it looks as if they will every second.

They go loping along on those end runs holding that ball in their hand as if it were a cantaloupe. It looks pretty, but I doubt if it is art. And it makes people shudder up here in the stands. Even if all of them aren't for your team, they still shudder.

Gosh, there goes that Hays again. Oh, Mr. Alexander.

THEY LOOK GOOD.

The Georgia Techs look very good. Everyone, it seems, can kick that point after touchdown wherein the past few years are very few, if any, can kick it.

There isn't much of the razzle-dazzle. But when it goes, it goes. There goes a 44-yard pass from Sims to Konemann. As he catches it the flash bulbs from the photographers' guns go off, giving the impression of shooting stars.

The Techs do everything effortlessly, smoothly, as if it were a dress rehearsal. This team might go places.

I like the way the Presbyterians fight. But better than anything else, I like the way this Tech team gives the impression of knowing its business.

With which thought we will sign off until tomorrow at Athens.

10,0000 WATCH JACKETS WIN

Vic Correll were heroic figures for P. C.

Coach Walter A. Johnson presented a squad which never stopped fighting. They paid him quite a compliment in this respect. They never stopped fighting.

The Jackets will rest today and Sunday and return to work Monday for the Sewanee game here next Saturday. Coach Hek Clark scouted the Alexandrians last night and said he was impressed. A number of other scouts, including Porter Grant, from Kentucky, said Tech seemed to have something.

Tech, as said, used no laterals. Just straight power plays, mixed with passes, and plenty of variety.

Tech supporters saw a team of ball hawks and a pitching and catching pass combination, of Sims, Jordan and Konemann, that should wreak havoc in the tough schedule ahead.

The big forward wall, once finding itself, was an irresistable force. And with blocking what it was in the latter stages of the game, the backs were given plenty of opportunity to advance.

Tech has opened up before in recent years with a score fully as impressive but not with the finesse that led to the touchdowns.

One of the really outstanding things was the manner in which the different line and backfield combinations clicked. Steady changes took nothing away from teamwork.

All of which meant that the Jackets have what they have needed in recent years—capable replacements. The reserve strength is all to the good.

The Jackets showed a bit of weakness on pass defense which will be ironed out with more work.

British Speed Driver Gets Salt Lake Bid

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 25.—(UP)—Captain George E. T. Eyston, English speed driver, today was invited to come to Bonneville Salt Flats for his attempt on the world's speed record of 301.33 miles per hour.

The British speed driver announced yesterday he plans an attempt on the world mark, established here by Sir Malcolm Campbell.

Campbell's record was made on the salt flats and Eyston himself has set a number of world's records there, including the 48-hour record which was broken Wednesday by Ab Jenkins and Bab Stapp, American drivers.

Mauldin and Taylor Clash Monday Night

John Mauldin, the light heavyweight champion of the south, has been challenged by Ted Taylor, the Mississippi log roller in a free-for-all match at the Key arena Monday night.

Taylor, one of the roughest grapplers to appear here in a long time, states he does not want the belt if he defeats the Atlanta boy, but he wants to show him just how tough he is.

HAS SPEED SYSTEM.

CHAPEL HILL, N. C.—Ray (Bear) Wolf, North Carolina's coach, has a simple system when he thinks his Tarheels don't show enough speed. When he takes the squad out on the field for a run, the "old man" can outrace most of them. He tried it the other day and beat everybody but Crowell Little.

Pershing Made Reply to George In War Memoirs, Friend Declares

Great American General Is Upheld by Followers for Opposing Amalgamation of United States Army With That of British.

(Copyright, 1936, by North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Friends and former associates of General John J. Pershing in New York point out that he has already made his reply to the charges contained in the fifth volume of David Lloyd George's war memoirs, published in London today.

General Jershing's position in his controversy with Lloyd George is made clear in his own memoirs, "My Experiences in the World War."

Without intending to do so, Pershing's friends say, Lloyd George in his memoirs shows plainly how demoralized the allies were at the time the United States entered the World War. There is indisputable evidence now that the Germans were even worse off. But the allies did not know that then and this accounts for the impossible demands made by Prime Minister Lloyd George and Premier Clemenceau that American soldiers should be used to fill their decimated ranks, instead of fighting under their own flag.

British Approved Plan.

At the meeting of the commanders-in-chief and chiefs of staff, January 24, 1918, General Pershing emphatically declared 'the use of American battalions to build up British divisions could not be thought of," but General Tasker H. Bliss, who attended the conference, under instructions from Secretary of War Baker, was much impressed with a plan offered by the British.

General Bliss suggested General Pershing and he submit the question to Washington. General Pershing replied if they did so, both of them should be recalled. Lloyd George, who was much interested in this conference, probably had the result in mind when he wrote that "General Bliss was level-headed and endowed with an uncommon measure of common sense," but that "General Pershing was a narrow, stubborn man who threw one obstacle after another into the path of the allied leaders" and "suffered from the vainglorious inflexibility of the professional mind."

In his memoirs Pershing tells how Clemenceau attempted to work through Washington. The French premier cabled the secretary of war that Pershing had reported that General Petain and he had agreed upon a plan, but that Petain conveyed to Clemenceau an opposite opinion.

In his book, Pershing quotes from a cable he sent to Secretary Baker:

Want Amalgamation.

". . . The French have not been entirely frank, as unofficial information indicates they really want to incorporate our regiments into their divisions for such service in the trenches as they desire. As to our instruction, a certain amount of work with French troops is beneficial and this we are having and expect to have. . . . Have expressed a willingness to aid in any way in an emergency but do not think good reason yet exists for us to break up our divisions and scatter regiments for service among French and British, especially under the guise of instruction."

Pershing then continues:

"It thus appeared quite clear that the French were so intent on their plan that Clemenceau presumed to cable Washington as to how our units were to be handled.

"As the French were dead set on getting our troops under their control, it is more than probable that the prime minister, feeling ....

that their plans were not working out, sought to create some distrust .....

....

in the minds of our administration at Washington against my ....

....

management of things, in order to pave the way for insisting that we

The British were even more insistent than the French. When the conferences of the commanders-in-chief and chiefs of staff met in January, 1918, amalgamation was close to Lloyd George's heart. The British arguments were squarely and frankly met by Pershing but Bliss was at first somewhat impressed with the British plan. Later, at the next conference, Lloyd George singled out Bliss and asked for his views. Bliss replied:

To Back Pershing.

"Pershing will speak for us and what he says with regard to the American troops will have my approval."

Lloyd George didn't like it—and he doesn't seem to like it even after 18 years.

But all of the allied commanders and chiefs were not of the same mind with Lloyd George and Clemenceau, as is evident from this extract from Pershing's own story:

"During an informal visit to Marshal Joffre January 26 I was gratified to hear the marshal confirm my views as to the fallacy of amalgamation. . . .

"Speaking as a friend of mine and also in the interests of the allies, Marshal Joffre said: 'It would be a mistake to incorporate American battalions in British divisions, as it would adversely affect the divisions,' and that 'orders might be given by a British general or his staff that would be resented by Americans, but the same orders would be accepted without question if given by an American commander. In case of a reverse there would be the tendency to place the blame on the Americans.

"'Furthermore,' he went on to say, 'in case of an attack, your infantry would have to be supported by British artillery, and here again there might be differences.'

Found Not Advisable.

"He did not believe it possible that there could exist between them that perfect confidence and liaison that was absolutely necessary between the infantry and artillery. As an indication that it was not a policy suggested by good practice and experience, he pointed out that during the whole course of the war the British had never found it advisable to incorporate Canadians, Australians, New Zealanders, Indians, Portuguese or even Scotch in the same divisions with English.

"'Then,' he said, 'you must consider the American people at home and their interest in and their support of the war, which would be adversely affected by amalgamation.' He added that his views were given to me confidentially, as an act of friendship. Here, then, was a distinguished French soldier who could see these questions in their true perspective, without prejudice or bias."

JESSE JONES DENIES 'VERY SICK' REPORTS

'Am All Right Now,' Reconstruction Corporation Chairman Says.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—(AP)—Chairman Jesse Jones, of the Reconstruction Corporation, returned to his office after several months' absence today to deny recurring reports that he is a very sick man.

"I have been sick," he said in an interview, "but I am all right now. I had a severe attack of intestinal flu in Wyoming last summer and it sapped my strength. It left me in a very weakened condition from which I am recovering slowly.

"I had planned all along to spend my vacation on the Pacific coast, combining business with pleasure, for I wanted to look at two projects there that are being financed with RFC funds . . ."

Commenting on his abrupt departure recently from the convention of the American Bankers' Association, which he was scheduled to address, Jones said he had intended to stay and make the speech but that he did not feel equal to the task at the last moment.

Jones said an airplane accident in Texas last spring, in which he dragged the pilot from the burning wreck, had nothing to do with his illness.

"I didn't even get my pants scorched," he explained.

He said he planned to remain at work in Washington for an indefinite period.
